The Cazenovia, N.Y., school board was considering terminating Richard J. Sagar's superintendent contract at least three months before he resigned from that position this past June, according to school board documents.

"Whereas, as a result of the school board's view of Mr. Sagar's performance and its view of the state of the relationship between the school board and Mr. Sagar, the school board is considering terminating the contractual

Did teachers use building illegally?

By Lisa A. Boudreau

A meeting held by teachers on school property last month to discuss Nov. 6 ballot Question 3 has at least one Andover resident calling foul play and accusing the union of misusing school property.

Tom McCarron, 18 Morton St., believes the meeting, during which people discussed the possible impact of Question 3, was more of a rally calling for the defeat of the question, which would roll taxes and fees back to 1988 levels. He said the teachers' union, which sponsored the meeting, shouldn't have been allowed to use the West Middle School auditorium free of charge on Thursday, Sept. 27.

"They called it a forum, but a forum represents both sides. What they had was more of a rally. That's not information; that's propaganda," said Mr. McCarron.

Chip Dunn and his daughter, Jill, of 17 Elm Court, didn't allow the rainstorm last Saturday to keep them from getting out of the house.

Here's a summary of two ballot questions

Six questions will be on the Nov. 6 election ballot. The Townsman will publish a summary of each question in this and the next two issues. Today, questions 1 and 2 are summarized.

The information on the questions comes from the office of the secretary of state. The summaries of the questions were written by the state attorney general and the statements describing the effect of a yes or no vote were written by the secretary of state.

Question 1: Abolishing the state census.

Summary: The proposed constitutional amendment would repeal the constitutional provision that a state census be taken and used as the basis for determining state representative, senatorial and councillor districts. The amendment would provide that the federal census shall be the basis for determining such districts.

Coon, Tucker talk Coon blames Tucker

By Don Staruk

"This state is in such a need of help and I feel like (Rep. Susan Tucker) is part of the problem," Gary Coon said last week.

Mr. Coon, 26, of 27 Korinthian Way, is challenging Rep. Tucker for the 17th Essex seat in the House of Representatives. During an interview last week, Mr. Coon pointed out

Tucker knocks Coon's credibility, experience

By Don Staruk

Rep. Susan Tucker (D-Andover) is leaning on her experience in and out of office to try and put some distance between herself and Gary Coon, her Republican challenger.

"I think Gary is a very pleasant young man. But I think if we were applying for this job rather than running for it, I think his resume would be tossed aside in two seconds." Rep. Tucker, 46, of 6 Farrwood Drive, faces a re-election challenge for the 17th Essex District seat in the House of Representatives from Mr. Coon, 26, of 27 Korinthian Way.

Schools to shoulder most of budget cuts

By Lisa A. Boudreau

The Board of Selectmen voted unanimously Monday night on a proposal to cut $16,000 from the town's municipal maintenance account. At the same meeting, the School Committee agreed to shoulder the remaining $429,000 worth of cuts needed to balance the town's budget. The shortfall is a result of state cutbacks.

Final approval of the cuts will be made by voters at the Nov. 13 Special Town Meeting.

The selectmen, four School Committee members (Susan Poore and Richard Hubbell were absent) and the Finance Committee met Monday and agreed on a preliminary proposal to present to voters Nov. 13.

James Barenboim, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski believes renovations planned for the police station can be made for less than originally budgeted because of the "cur-

SENIORS

By Mary A. Byrne

I have received and accepted the invitation of the Elks Lodge of Andover for our senior citizens to attend the holiday dinner they provide each year. They are having a Thanksgiving dinner this year rather than a Christmas meal. The dates are Sundays, Nov. 11 and 18, and will be held at the Elks Lodge on South Main Street.

The tickets are available at the Senior Center. There is no charge. The tickets will be distributed on a first-come, first-serve basis, so choose which Sunday you would like to attend and pick up your ticket. We very much appreciate the many kindnesses the Elks show us during the year. I was invited to attend the dinner last year and we all had a wonderful time. Don't wait too long to get your ticket.

The Greater Lawrence-Lowell Stroke Club will meet at the Senior Center on Thursday, Oct. 18, from 2 to 4 p.m. A CVS pharmacist will review medications. A good patient-pharmacist relationship is vital and can be established despite the individual's handicaps. All interested persons are welcome.

The Halloween party at Old Town Hall on Wednesday, Oct. 31, promises to be a delightful evening of music and dancing. Festivities are from 5 to 9 p.m. A light supper will be served. Ticket cost is $4.

The final lecture in the financial management series will be held at the Senior Center on Thursday, Nov. 8, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. This will be a Living Trusts Workshop. There is no charge, but we would appreciate a call if you're planning to attend.

Note that beginning Monday, Oct. 29, the hours at the walk-in center at Old Town Hall will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday. It will be getting dark earlier and with the cold and stormy weather approaching, we want to be sure our volunteers get home safely.

Don't forget the blood pressure clinic every Wednesday at the center at 2 p.m.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Candidates to debate next Thursday

Andover's candidates for state senator and state representative will take part in a debate Thursday, Oct. 25, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Andover.

The debate will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the top floor meeting room at Memorial Hall Library. It is open to the public.

The candidates for state senator who will be taking part include the incumbent, State Sen. Pat McGovern, and her Republican challenger, Alba Castillo. In the race for the 17th Essex seat in the state House of Representatives, Democratic incumbent Sue Tucker will face Republican Gary Coon. League member Betsy Cullen will moderate the debate.

Each candidate will make an opening statement and answer four questions, two prepared by the Andover League and one each by the Andover Townsman and the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune. Each candidate will have the chance to ask a question of his or her opponent and answer questions from the audience.

Number of weekend trains to be cut Nov. 3

Starting the weekend of Nov. 3, T train riders will be affected by a reduction in the number of trains to and from Boston on Saturdays and Sundays.

Andover commuters will have one less train to Boston on weekends. Saturday and Sunday train schedules are the same.

The earliest train from Andover to Boston will be changed from 6:38 a.m. to 7:32 a.m. The last train from Andover to Boston will be changed from 9:38 p.m. to 10:32 p.m.

One out-bound train from Boston to Andover will be added to the schedule. The first train back to Andover leaves North Station at 8:45 a.m. and arrives in Andover at 9:27 a.m. The last train out of Boston leaves North Station one half-hour earlier than previously, now at 11:30 p.m., and arrives in Andover at 12:30 a.m.

Other weekend train times will change as of Nov. 3, also, but are too lengthy to list here. Check the T schedule for times.

T officials say the consolidation is part of an effort to save money. T customers interested in giving their opinion on the consolidation plan are urged to write the Commuter Rail Department, 10 Park Plaza, Boston, Mass. 02116.

Collins Center cancels 3 shows

By Lisa A. Boudreau

Six very surprised theater-goers arrived at the J. Everett Collins Center for the performing Arts Friday, Oct. 12, to find that "Damn Yankees" had been canceled.

The six were the only ones out of the 200 tickets-holders who the Collins Center wasn't able to notify, said Bonnie Szarzynski, Collins Center program manager.

The Andover Endowment for the Arts, the non-profit group that oversees the facility for the town, and Kelly Johnson, newly appointed director of the center, decided Wednesday, Oct. 10, to cancel "Damn Yankees" and the remaining two shows this month because of extremely low ticket sales.

Ticket sales for the last two shows didn't even total 150. The Collins

Center has a seating capacity of approximately 1,100.

Nancy Collins, chairwoman of the AEA board of trustees, said four shows planned for October was too aggressive for today's sagging economy.

The Russian folk dance troupe Lezginka performed Oct. 3, and the Oct. 16 performance of "Moscow Soloists" was canceled along with the Oct. 22 appearance of Ramsey Lewis and Billy Taylor. Ms. Collins said the 1990-'91 season's remaining shows have not changed.

Staff members are still calling ticket-holders for the Oct. 22 show. Ticket-holders are being offered a refund or credit for another show. It will take the center two to three weeks to make refunds.

Ticket-holders are being asked if they'd consider donating the ticket refund back to the Collins Center, in which case they'd receive a tax deductible donation voucher.

Although a fund-raising campaign has brought in $12,000 to the Collins Center, it is still short of covering the $100,000 deficit with which it started the season.

COOKING

Columnist says she neglected men readers

By Maria Moskos

After publishing my last column, I realized that I didn't address an important segment of the Andover community - men. I apologize.

Men have told me they read and enjoy my column and chuckle when I inquire about the recipes they've tried; however, several men have stated they will try some of the "quick recipes." There are several single men and single fathers who cook through necessity and I'm happy to provide them with quick recipes. And there are men who cook because they're hungry or because they like to.

Desserts are often time-consuming, taking more time to prepare than all other parts of the meal combined. When choosing a quick dessert, focus on using quality ingredients to achieve a flavorful, healthy end result. Don't compromise taste for convenience. It would be better to serve a fine quality ice cream in a crystal parfait glass laced with an appropriate liqueur and embellished with a mini-orchid.

Apple squares

Preparation time: 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 35-40 minutes.

3/4 cup butter, melted

1 cup sugar

1 large egg, beaten

1 tsp. vanilla

2 cups flour

1 and 1/2 tsp. baking powder

1 and 1/3 cup coconut flakes

1 tsp. cinnamon

1/2 cup apple butter*

2 large apples, peeled, cored and sliced thin

Mix butter and sugar until well blended. Add egg and vanilla and mix well. Blend flour, baking powder, coconut and cinnamon, add to liquid mixture and blend well. Press 2/3 of mixture into well-greased, 13x9-inch pan. Spread apple butter over mixture. Arrange apple slices on top and dot remaining mixture over apples. Bake in 350-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes. Cool and cut into squares. Makes about 24.

Combine butter, brown sugar and cinnamon. Spread one side of each biscuit with brown sugar mixture. Place biscuits on their edge, filling the interior of the cranberry-lined ring mold. Bake in 375-degree oven 25 minutes. Cool three minutes and invert onto serving plate. Makes 20 slices.

Bourbon pecan pie

Preparation time: 10 minutes.

Cooking time: 34 to 40 minutes

1 ready-made 9-inch graham cracker crust.

1/4 cup butter
3/4 cup sugar

2 tsp. flour
3 large eggs
1/4 cup bourbon
1/2 cup light corn syrup
3/4 cup evaporated milk
1 cup chopped pecans.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Mix butter, sugar, vanilla and flour in medium bowl. Beat eggs in another bowl. Stir in bourbon, corn syrup, evaporated milk and pecans. Mix well and add to first mixture until completely blended. Pour into pie shell and bake 10 minutes. Reduce oven to 325 degrees and continue cooking until firm, about 25 to 30 additional minutes. (If there is extra pie filling, bake until firm in custard cups or small individual graham cracker pie shells.)

Serve pie with small scoop of vanilla ice cream flavored with bourbon.

Preparation time: 20 minutes.

Setting time: 2 hours.

1 good quality all-butter 9"-long pound cake

1 lb. whole milk ricotta cheese
2 tbsp. heavy cream

1/4 cup sugar
3 tbsp. Grand Marnier

1 tbsp. grated orange rind

2 oz. semi-sweet chocolate chips, coarsely chopped semi-sweet chocolate bar

1 can dark chocolate frosting

Slice crust ends off pound cake and level the top. Slice the cake horizontally into 1/2-inch layers. Place the ricotta in a processor fitted with a steel blade and, with the processor running, add cream, sugar, Grand Marnier and orange rind processing for a few seconds just until mix is smooth.

Fold in the chocolate chips by hand. Place the bottom layer of the pound cake on a rectangular serving plate and spread that layer and subsequent ones with ricotta mixture, keeping sides and ends even until filling is used up, ending with a cake slice.

Press the loaf together gently and refrigerate two hours until firm. With a small spatula, spread the chocolate frosting around the sides and top of cassata.

Soften the chocolate bar slightly in the microwave and make chocolate shaving with a vegetable peeler to decorate the top. Serves 12 to 15.

Dr. Michael T. Shannon, an oral and maxillofacial surgeon, has opened his practice, Northeast Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery, in North Andover.

Dr. Shannon is originally from Worcester, and completed his undergraduate studies at the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester. He attended Boston University's graduate school of biological sciences. Following this, Dr. Shannon received his doctorate degree at Tufts University School of Dental Medicine, Boston.

He then completed an internship in general surgery at St. John's Mercy Medical Center, St. Louis, Mo., followed by an oral and maxillofacial surgery residency at Barnes Hospital and St. Louis Children's Hospital at Washington University Medical Center in St. Louis, Mo.

A clinical fellowship in pediatric oral and maxillofacial surgery at these institutions followed.

Dr. Shannon then accepted an academic position as associate surgeon of oral and maxillofacial surgery at Geisinger Medical

Michael T. Shannon

Center in Danville, Pa., and assistant professor of oral and maxillofacial surgery at the University of Pennsylvania.

A diplomate of the American Board of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery, Dr. Shannon has published several articles. His particular areas of interest include pediatric maxillofacial trauma, diseases of the temporomandibular joint (TMJ) and the correction of facial deformities.

His practice will be located at 451 Andover St., North Andover. He lives in Andover with his wife, Carolyn, and their sons, Michael and Christopher.

James Edholm to run the CLASS 1990-'91 fund drive

Ray Decker, fund-raising chairman for the Lawrence-based Citizens League for Adult Special Services (CLASS Inc.), has announced that the 1990-'91 CLASS annual fund drive will be headed by James L. Edholm of Andover.

A financial consultant for Capital Analysts of New England Inc., Mr. Edholm has overseen a number of direct mail campaigns during the past 15 years in his capacity as marketing manager for various companies, including his present firm. He has served as a member of CLASS finance, fund-raising and strategic planning committees.

Mr. Edholm is taking over the responsibility of the drive from Mr. Decker, who has run it in the past in addition to chairing the fund-raising committee.

"We have needed someone to oversee this effort on a full-time basis, rather than having it done by someone who has many other responsibilities," said Mr. Decker. "This allows me more time to focus on overseeing the total fund raising plan."

Concerning his plans for the coming year, Mr. Edholm said, "We plan to start earlier than usual so we don't get jammed in the end of the year along with every other fund drive, Christmas sale and charitable appeal."

He also plans to broaden his donor base, using continuous direct mailings to recruit new supporters.

James L. Edholm

"This organization has wider appeal than we've realized - or taken advantage of - in the past," he said.

CLASS Inc. is one of the largest agencies in northeastern Massachusetts providing training services to adults with developmental disabilities. Begun in 1976, it is headquartered at 1 Parker St. in Lawrence and serves more than 160 trainees at facilities in Andover and North Andover. It offers services that range from the teaching of basic living skills to on-the-job training for competitive employment.

Andover Bank and First Essex call off plans to merge

Andover Bancorp Inc. and First Essex Bancorp Inc. jointly announced that they have by mutual agreement terminated their proposed merger. The merger was originally announced on Feb. 12.

In a joint statement, Robert M. Henderson, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Andover, and Leonard A. Wilson, president and chief executive officer of First Essex, stated as follows:

"The regional economy has changed significantly since we first agreed to merge in February, as has the regulatory environment for the banking industry generally. Most New England thrift institutions, including Andover and First Essex, have experienced increases in non-performing assets, although both our companies continue to have capital ratios that are well in excess of all current and proposed regulatory requirements.

"While we continue to believe that the proposed merger offers significant advantages to our companies, the uncertainties inherent in the current climate make it impossible to be sure that the anticipated benefits of the proposed merger would be achieved. Moreover, the current climate is an extremely difficult one in which to complete a transaction. Accordingly, the boards of both companies have determined that it is in the best interests of their respective shareholders not to proceed with the merger.

"Despite this decision, our companies continue to have high regard for each other and for the contributions each company makes to the communities we serve."

Andover Bancorp Inc., with total assets of $694 million at June 30, 1990, is the holding company of Andover Savings Bank. First Essex Bancorp, Inc., with $599 million in total assets at June 30, 1990, is the parent of First Essex Savings Bank in Lawrence and First Essex Savings Bank of New Hampshire in Windham, N.H.

Andover Bank plans seminar on pensions

Due to an overwhelming response to last June's free retirement planning seminar, Andover Bank is again sponsoring the seminar, entitled "Make the Most of Your Pension Distribution." The free seminar will be held Monday, Oct. 29, from 7 to 9 p.m., at McQuade Library, auditorium, Merrimack College in North Andover.

Seminar leader David H. Hammond, vice president of Northeast Retirement Services Inc., of Woburn, will discuss money-saving tax strategies and investment alternatives for retirement distributions. Mr. Hammond is an author, columnist and consultant specializing in tax-deferred retirement planning.

"The IRS gives people just 60 days to decide what to do with their retirement distributions, which makes advance planning essential," said Robert M. Henderson, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Andover Bank. "Anyone who expects a lump sum distribution in the next few years should find this a valuable seminar."

The seminar will cover the pros and cons of retirement distribution options. To reserve a seat or to be placed on the mailing list for future seminars, call Cynthia Shaheen, Andover Bank Retirement Plans Manager, or sign up at any Andover Bank office.

HISTORY

Housework: A sure thing

By Virginia Lopez Begg

Along with death and taxes, housework can be considered a sure thing. How our female ancestors coped with the inevitable demands of housekeeping is the subject of a new exhibit at the Andover Historical Society. "Fine Art in Drudgery: Household Management, 1840-1940" is the title of the exhibit, which opens Wednesday, Oct. 24, with a special reception from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. The free event is open to the public and refreshments will be served.

Objects from the society's collections will illustrate how women managed an infinite litany of chores - cooking, baking, food preservation, dishwashing, laundry, ironing, mending and cleaning. The household advice books and cookbooks that poured from so many women's inkwells in those years will also be on display. Advertisements and photographs will help document the multiplicity of gadgets and inventions that promised to lighten the housekeeper's burden.

The title of the exhibit, "Fine Art in Drudgery," is taken from a chapter heading in a book by Marian Harland.

Ms. Harland, whose real name was Mary Virginia Hawes Terhune, was one of America's most popular writers in the second half of the 19th century. She produced 25 novels, usually set in the antebellum Virginia of her girlhood, and a dozen volumes of travel and history, in addition to more than 25 books of household management. She was also a syndicated magazine columnist and writer of short stories. She asserted that, "The true lady leaves upon the most menial task the stamp of herself."

Ms. Harland's career testifies to the profound changes in American culture from 1840 to 1940. The Industrial Revolution and the Civil War were two of the important influences that reached into every corner of daily life, including routine housekeeping tasks.

The Andover Historical Society's exhibit vividly illustrates these changes. Before the Industrial Revolution, most people had few possessions and all of those were handmade.

With the Industrial Revolution came an enormous increase in the quantity of what comedian George Carlin calls "stuff." While Victorians were delighted by all their new "stuff," the dreary reality emerged that every bit of it had to be cleaned, polished, repaired, dusted, waxed or otherwise tended to. To women fell this responsibility.

Visitors to the Andover Historical Society's new exhibit, which runs through April 1991, can discover the weapons they used in the battle that never ends.

"Fine Art in Drudgery" has been mounted by Andover Historical Society Director/Curator Charlotte Smith, with the assistance of the exhibits and collections committees.

Committee members include Robin Sung, chairperson, Norma Gammon, Margaret Roberts, Pat Snedeker, Kal Lynch, Priscilla Alden, Barbara Alden, Karen Herman, Diane Savrann and Dot Tavern.

The Andover Historical Society's 1991 calendar is available for sale at $7.95. It contains historic photos of the area. The calendars are for sale in different stores around Andover.

Adam Lafond warms up his lips before Andover High's band competition Sunday. Andover won the silver medal for coming in first in Division II.

Marching band wins division, silver medal

The Andover High School Marching Band won the silver medal in a competition Sunday.

The band took first place in Division II with 79.1 points in the event, which was hosted by Andover and Haverhill high schools.

Fifteen bands performed their routines before judges, families and friends.

For most of the bands the overall results were improved scores from last week's competition with close scores for some.

Besides its medal, Andover had the best drum major (Maureen Mitchell), percussion (Dave Froburg, Kerry Galvin, Suzanne Gemmell, Brian Imbro, Steve Neal and Gail Roberts) and music.

"The staff was very pleased with today's performance," said band director Marc Keroack, "especially considering that the band learned of a tragedy in the family of a band member. The band showed great poise and concentration in this difficult situation."

Ms. Gemmell's father, Joseph, died the night before the competition when the van he was driving was hit by a falling branch.

Mr. Keroack thanked parents of musicians from both towns and Andover's announcer, Allan Minkinen, for their work.

"We're going to push it really hard to do well this year," said sophomore clarinetist Beth

Something about the 1990 exchange program at AHS

Joining the student body at Andover High School this year are two American Field Service foreign exchange students, Irina Ercegovic of Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, and Andreas Hasler of Rapperswil, Switzerland.

Both, Ms. Ercegovic and Mr. Hasler are 18 years old and members of the senior class at Andover High School. Both speak English very well, said Molly Ryden, AFS faculty adviser at the high school. She has arranged the students' schedule to include a wide variety of subjects and activities.

Ms. Ercegovic is living with the Pakstis family of Lincoln Street. While she misses her close-knit family back home, consisting of mother, father and 12-year-old brother, she says she is appreciative of the help and support her Andover family has offered her.

Sarajevo is surrounded by mountains and was the host of the 1984 Winter Olympics. School in Yugoslavia is more specialized, and students take more subjects, Ms. Ercegovic said. Classes are larger, and the same students stay together for each class.

Ms. Ercegovic says she is enjoying Andover High School and that her favorite subjects are math and music.

She enjoys playing basketball, which is played all year in Yugoslavia. She also likes to read, listen to music and swim and is a member of the YMCA.

Both Mr. Hasler and Ms. Ercegovic say the thing they find the most difficult to get used to is the lack of public transportation. In America it is hard to go anywhere without a car, and teen-agers here are much more dependent on their parents and the family car for transportation, they said.

Mr. Hasler, whose nickname is Andy, is living with the Christopher family of Dale Street.

Reception honors foreign students

A reception for foreign students living in the Merrimack Valley will be held Wednesday, Oct. 24, at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall Library's second-floor hall.

This annual event, sponsored by the American Field Service and Memorial Hall Library, commemorates the founding of the United Nations organization on Oct. 24, 1945, and its purpose, "to develop friendly relations among nations."

Susan Wahr and Stephen Gervais will present a program about their trip to the Orient and neighboring countries.

Sue Burke, president of the Andover chapter of AFS, will serve as hostess. Refreshment will be provided by students from Andover High School's AFS club.

The public is invited.

Homecoming activities are now in full swing

Homecoming Week at Andover High School opened Sunday with the marching band competition.

Daily events included team recognition days, when athletic team members wore their game shirts, and students nominated and voted for homecoming king, queen and court.

On "Blue and Gold Day," Friday, Oct. 19, the faculty will eat breakfast together. The school day will end with a pep rally at which the king and queen will be announced.

The homecoming football game will be against Dracut High School at Eugene V. Lovely Field at 7 p.m.

Andover High faculty encouraged alumni and residents to attend to show support and spirit for the high school.

The Football Parents Organization will run a concession stand at the game.

School 'fun run' set for Oct. 23

The Andover physical education department, in cooperation with Andover High School's cross country team, is sponsoring a one-mile cross country run.

The idea of the run is to promote cardiovascular fitness, the enjoyment of running and the development of sportsmanship, organizers said.

The event is open to eligible fourth- and fifth-grade students from the Andover public elementary schools. There will be separate boys' and girls' divisions in each grade.

The run is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 23, at 4:15 p.m. starting in the Eugene V. Lovely Field. A rain date is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 24.

The public is invited. The estimated time of completion is 5:30 p.m.

October is 'Computer Learning Month'

By Ken Kwajewski

For the past three years Andover public schools have successfully infused technology into the curriculum throughout all grade levels.

Teachers, students and administrators have worked hard to revise and modernize the schools' educational programs.

Since October is recognized as Computer Learning Month throughout the country, I would like to recognize some of the uses of technology throughout the school system.

Students at the elementary level begin their introduction to computers by using Muppet software to learn how to recognize letters, colors, patterns and shapes on the computer screen.

Elementary school
Students in the upper elementary grades learn how to use the computer as a tool to accomplish tasks.

These include learning to keyboard with the Paws software program; developing solutions to problems with the Logo programming language; word processing with the Bank Street Writer program; and combining writing and graphics with the Logowriter program in the fifth grade.

A telecommunications project at all elementary schools this year will be the continuation of the Kid's Net science program. All four schools will share data on acid rain and weather with students across the United States.

New videodisk programs on elementary science will be previewed this year and, it is hoped, incorporated into the elementary science curriculum.

Middle school

Middle school students continue their use of technology by learning how to use the powerful Appleworks program for word processing,

Due to an editorial mistake, a graduation announcement for Linda Marie Rensink that ran on page 23 of the Oct. 4 Townsman said Ms. Rensink worked for Colby College.

Ms. Rensink received a master of science in professional accounting degree from the University of Hartford Aug. 5.

She also has a degree from Colby College.

She works for Arthur Anderson, and her plans are to continue working there in the field of international taxation.

Mr. Hasler's favorite sport is tennis, and he says he also enjoys listening to '60s music and collects Swiss coins.

UNICEF boxes distributed

This Halloween, in addition to the door-to-door trick or treating for candy, the children attending Shawsheen School will be collecting money for UNICEF.

Boxes will be distributed at the Apple Festival to be held at the Shawsheen School on Saturday, Oct. 20, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Children not attending the festival may pick up the UNICEF boxes from their teachers the following week.

This project was initiated by Terry Wetzler-Finn, whose daughter Heather attends kindergarten. Mrs. Wetzler-Finn said collecting UNICEF as a child on Halloween "gave me an awareness, at a young age, that there were children all over the world less fortunate than I was."

Mrs. Wetzler-Finn said she was inspired after watching a recent segment of the television news program "20/20" on orphan-

AHS band wins division, silver medal

Ross. "We're going to go for the gold." A score of 85 or above receives a gold medal.

Haverhill took third place in Division III with 67.8 points (bronze medal).

Here are the complete standings.

Division I: North Reading (72.3), best drum major, percussion and music; Bishop Feehan (64.4), best band front; Lynnfield (60.4).

Division II: Andover (79.1), best drum major, percussion and music; Triton (76.7), best band front; Joseph Case (64.8).

Division III: Methuen (70.8) took all the bests; Portsmouth (68.1); Haverhill (67.8).

Division IV: Westbrook (79.4), best drum major; Beverly (79.3), best band front, percussion and music; Malden (79).

More than precision marching is viewed in this year's band season. For instance, yellow slickers and red umbrellas accent the song "Don't Rain On My Parade." Baton twirlers, one twirling fire, a drum set solo, a drum major in a full set of tuxedo tails and "marching" drums are among the additions.

These entertaining visuals, however, do not detract from the integration of band front and marching musicians, Mr. Keroack said. The individual band members work hard at bringing their highest level of performance to their band, he said.

Ann Couture-White, student teacher assisting with the Andover band, was a drum major for her high school band.

"This is the first time I've come in contact with something this intense," she said. "We were never in this caliber in my high school. Our focus was different. We did exhibition."

The next competition will be at Portsmouth, N.H., on Sunday, Oct. 21, at 1 p.m.

finals will be held in Foxboro Stadium on Sunday, Nov. 4.

"It's a relatively short season, but it's frantic," said Debbie Lafond, whose son, Adam, plays trumpet for the band. "It's absolutely as demanding as any athletic program. They practice 16 to 18 hours a week."

Doherty parents back at school

The annual "Back to School" for parents at Doherty Middle School will be held this evening, Oct. 18, beginning promptly at 7 p.m.

Parents will follow a typical day's schedule, but on a much abbreviated basis, school officials said.

The purpose of the program is for parents to meet their son's or daughter's teachers and hear a brief description of the Doherty's programs.

Pike students explore Maine

Ninth-graders from the Pike School in Andover are spending this week on the coast of Maine. All 22 students and two of their teachers are at Camp Chewonki learning about the outdoors. Located in Wiscasset, Chewonki specializes in off-season programs.

Since the mid 1970s the Chewonki trip has been a learning experience for the ninth-graders, Pike's senior class, said school spokesman Arnold W. Dyer.

Students spend five days on a 400-acre wilderness site working with the professional staff. They are exposed to the natural environment and master basic outdoor skills, Mr. Dyer said. The experience fosters a unity that carries over into subsequent ninth-grade activities throughout the year, he added.

With this year's group are Upper School Head Walter Morris and Steve Purington, a class adviser.

spreadsheets and data base manipulation.

Teachers were trained this summer to use the program throughout the curriculum.

Other examples of technology being used at the middle school level include the Voyage of the Mimi program; Lego Logo programming in the industrial arts department; telecommunication research using an on-line data base system in the media center; and a stored encyclopedia program on a CD ROM player.

This same player is used to play a CD about Ludwig van Beethoven's music and life.

Teachers at both schools are also tapping the power of the computer to develop educational materials and use a computerized grading program.

High school

Computer labs at the high school are busy centers of activity this year as students and teachers learn how to use the computer as a powerful tool.

A new required course for all ninth-grade students helps them use the technology the school has to offer.

Students learn about word processing, spreadsheets, data bases, television production, telecommunications, CAD/CAM, computer programming and keyboarding.

Technology comes alive throughout the high school because many teachers are using new tools to present subject material.

Teachers are using devices such as CD players, video disks, computers, printers, plotters, overhead projectors and educational software programs in all subject areas.

Music teachers compete with mathematics teachers for use of a computer lab.

There are many more examples of technology throughout the system, but the most important thing is that teachers and students are now beginning to use it.

This month the Computer Learning

Foundation, a non-profit educational foundation, sponsors a month-long focus of events and activities for learning new uses of the computer.

Most Andover schools will participate in the contests and events sponsored by this organization.

Katie Crawford, computer specialist at Doherty Middle School, will organize contest events throughout the month, and eighth-grade students will visit the Computer Museum in Boston.

Sue McLellan, computer specialist at West Middle School, said similar events will take place at her school.

Over the past three years many educational programs have been revitalized through the use of technology. Great strides have been made and more will continue this year.

October is Computer Learning Month, but Andover's educators are making sure that technology is being successfully used every month of the school year.

Ken Kwajewski is computer education director for Andover public schools.

When the future of Lawrence General Hospital was in danger, they turned to Pat McGovern.

In October, 1988, the financial situation at Lawrence General Hospital was critical. The hospital was caught between rising costs and slow payments, by the state and others. The future of the hospital was in jeopardy. Hospital officials called on Pat McGovern.

Immediately, Pat McGovern went to work. She brought together state officials, banks, insurers, and the hospital to work out a way to protect the future health of Lawrence General.

At Pat McGovern's request, funds were advanced to the hospital, and the State Rate Setting Commission awarded an increase to correct for past errors. In a few weeks the immediate crisis was resolved.

Pat McGovern didn't stop there. She kept the pressure on the state, the banks, and insurers. By the fall of 1989, Lawrence General was back to financial health.

The fight wasn't easy. According to one hospital official, Pat "dedicated her days, evenings, weekends, and holidays" to solving the hospital's problems.

Thanks to Pat McGovern, Lawrence General was revitalized.

- 1,300 jobs were protected.
- The largest public health facility in the region is providing better service than ever.

Hard work and straight talk—
Pat McGovern.

We need her more than ever.

Psi Symposium talks about dowsing tonight

Gordon Barton, a member of the American Society of Dowsers, will explain dowsing and its practical applications on Thursday, Oct. 18, at North Parish Unitarian Church, 190 Academy Road, North Andover.

The doors open at 7 p.m. and the program starts promptly at 7:30. A freewill donation is requested at the door.

Mr. Barton's lecture is being sponsored by the Merrimack Valley Psi Symposium.

When most people think of dowsing, they picture someone holding a forked stick to find water.

"That, in fact, is only one of the many ways that dowsing or the use of a hand-held object to detect either outer or inner energy fields can be used," Mr. Barton said.

Modern-day practitioners use dowsing to locate weaknesses in the body, whether from disease or vitamin and mineral deficiencies and then use the dowsing instrument to help decide how to heal.

Former Israeli ambassador to speak at Temple Emanuel

A former ambassador will speak at a breakfast meeting of the Temple Emanuel Brotherhood Sunday, Oct. 28, at 9 a.m. at the temple, 7 Haggetts Pond Road.

Former Israeli Ambassador Benno Weiser Varon will speak on the current Iraq situation in the Middle East and its effects on the United States and Israel.

Ambassador Varon is one of the members of Israel's delegation to the United Nations who participated in the historic U.N. Palestine Partition Resolution of 1947. The Encyclopedia Judaica attributes to him a pivotal part in lining up the decisive Latin American support for the resolution.

After his arrival in 1938 from Vienna in Quito, he became one of Ecuador's leading columnists. Drafted by the Jewish Agency in 1946 into its political apparatus, he directed its Latin American department in New York from 1948 to 1960 and later Israel's cultural relations with the Hispanic world, from Jerusalem. He was Israel's ambassador to the Dominican Republic, Jamaica and Paraguay and a member of Israel's delegation to the United Nations.

A prolific writer and lecturer, Ambassador Varon wrote books in three languages and published articles in the New York Times, Boston Globe, Christian Science Monitor, Commentary, Midstream, Jerusalem Post and most Jewish periodicals.

Now a history professor at Boston University, he is an original and entertaining speaker, with his 11th commandment being, "You shall never bore an audience."

Temple Emanuel will also host an open house pizza supper for new and prospective members on Sunday, Nov. 4, at 6 p.m.

The event is being coordinated by Nan Blank, Alice Radack, Cindy Cohen and Walter Wertheimer.

There is no charge for the event, which is open to all who may have an interest in joining the congregation. Call the temple office at 470-1356 to place a reservation. Temple Emanuel is located at 7 Haggetts Pond Road.

Church celebrates anniversary

South Church, United Church of Christ, will mark the 279th anniversary of its ministry in Andover this Sunday, Oct. 21.

The service of worship will include special brass and choral music, food offerings for Neighbors in Need pantry and recognition of people who have been members for 50 years and more.

The sermon will be given by Rev. Richard Lammers, a missionary who has served for 41 years in Japan through the United Church Board of World Ministries.

Rev. Lammers is chaplain, and his wife, Martha, is educational director at the Good Neighbor Christian Center in Morioka, Japan.

They also work with a number of rural churches in northern Japan where Rev. Lammers preaches and counsels pastors and lay leaders.

Married in Hiroshima three years after the end of World War

II, the Lammers are deeply committed to building "bridges of peace," said South Church officials. Before going to Morioka, they worked in Kitami and Hokkaido.

They have established and developed two-week "Neighbor-to-Neighbor" study tours that enable Japanese Christians to visit churches in the United States.

Rev. Lammers is a graduate of Heidelberg College and the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology and has done postgraduate work at Cornell University.

The 1.7-million member United Church of Christ is a 1957 union of the Congregational Christian Church and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The United Church Board for World Ministries, founded in 1810, is the oldest U.S. overseas missionary agency. More than 200 personnel are engaged in medical, agricultural, educational, social and church programs.

Rev. Zaeder's labor of love

By Diana Zipeto

Building stone walls during the summer has become, for the Rev. Philip Zaeder, a way of life as well as a break from the hectic clutter of the other three seasons.

Rev. Zaeder, for the nine months of school, is occupied with grades and schedules and students.

His official positions at Phillips Academy are English professor and Protestant chaplain - jobs that consume weekdays, weekends and nights.

His remaining pockets of time are filled with student concerns; he is the organizer of the Senior Leadership Conference in the fall and the PA Walk For Hunger contingency in the spring, as well as the organizer of Andover's Oxfam America and coach of the academy's cycling team.

But as soon as the busy school year is put away for the summer, Rev. Zaeder leaves Andover for the Milton, N.H., country life. There, amidst his garden and the woods and the pastures, Rev. Zaeder gets away from the notions of pedagogy and tragicomedy, sentence structure and student conferences.

In these summer months, he builds stone walls.

For 20 years, he has been re-assembling the weathered stone walls that were first constructed hundreds of years ago. He has built a mile of stone wall as a "mute testimony" to the original builders.

He says he learned this hobby-turned-addiction by trial and error to keep his property in repair.

But he says he has found that the rewards of stone-wall building surpass aesthetic pleasure and physical exertion. Rev. Zaeder finds a philosophical therapy in the construction, an attraction to "something you can't do quickly" that made him continue to build walls even after his property was repaired.

He uses just a crowbar and his hands to place the stones. Rev. Zaeder spends hours to days to weeks creating foot after foot of wall. This is a seemingly routineless routine for a man whose other life is so filled with structure.

But Rev. Zaeder's intricate art is an order that mirrors his school year: his willingness to work hard and his addiction to the "labor of love."

Diana Zipeto is a senior at Phillips Academy.

This female cat, about a year old, needs a home. She's at the Andover Animal Hospital, waiting for someone to love her. Administrators there say the calico cat, orange, white and blackish-brown, is very friendly. She had a flea collar on when she was found. The cat with the broken leg mentioned in last week's Townsman has found a new home.

Was it legal?

Mr. McCarron, who was unable to attend the 4 p.m. meeting, said he's sure both sides of the CLT petition, which he supports, weren't given fair representation.

Steve Jankauskas, 42 Farrwood Drive, a teacher at South Elementary School and spokesman for the teachers' union, said the intent of the meeting was to educate union members during a regular union meeting. He said the public was invited as a courtesy.

According to Selma Flieder, town facilities coordinator, the WMS auditorium was reserved the afternoon of Sept. 27, by the teachers' union for a regular meeting.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth Seifert said all school associations have historically been allowed to conduct business in school facilities after school hours free of charge. He said when political issues are involved then the area becomes gray.

Dr. Seifert said he would send communications to school associations soon, apprising them that, "If they want to advertise to the public and use facilities for non-association business then they are going to have to pay to rent the facility."

Andres Salazar, School Committee chairman, said the committee has a policy allowing teachers to post their own materials, political or not, in the teachers' lounge, but not in classrooms or hallways.

"You can't stop public employees from exercising their First Amendment rights," said Mr. Salazar. "But, you can restrict them from disrupting the normal flow of the school day."

RECYCLING

It's plastic and aluminum Saturday; leaves starting today, Thursdays through Saturdays

By Virginia Cole

Saturday, Oct. 20, is plastic and aluminum collection at West Middle School parking lot. The times are 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Please don't drop off your plastic before the trucks and monitors are there. We are still all getting used to what can be recycled and bags of trash left for volunteers to go through requires more patience and devotion than can be expected of most of us. The ones who leave their bags unattended seem to be those who haven't figured out what can be recycled and haven't bothered to clean their offerings. Recyclers are devoted to the cause but none of us want to be garbage sorters.

We realize four hours is a limited time frame but this is the service you are offered. Remember, it is a free service. No one is paying the contractor or the monitors. We are all trying to lower the costs to the town as well as improving the environment.

But another warning: The trucks do get full in those four hours and as Mr. White says to me, when his four hours are up, he leaves. He asks me if the bank opens their doors when I come banging on them two minutes after they have closed. They never have for me.

So, bring your styrofoam trays from under meat and vegetables. Bring your milk, water, juice and cider jugs (flattened). Plastic bottles and other containers with a one or two on the bottom surrounded by a circle of arrows are also recyclable. These are often liquor bottles, household detergents and shampoos. Every now and then something new with a one or a two shows up. There are other numbers on the bottoms but so far markets have not been found by our middleman.

Aluminum cans will be taken: A magnet will not stick to aluminum. You probably have a magnet on your refrigerator to hold messages.

Now we are awaiting the results of our new composting facility. It opens this week, Thursday the 18th through Saturday the 20th, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will be open relationship between the district and Mr. Sagar," read the minutes of a March 22, 1990, Cazenovia school board meeting.

The minutes then went on to quote the provision in Mr. Sagar's contract that outlined the procedures to be followed in considering termination of the agreement.

Mr. Sagar, of Cazenovia, is one of three finalists for the superintendent-of-schools job here in Andover. He said this week that the minutes give a false impression of the actual circumstances and that he left Cazenovia to work on his doctoral dissertation and to work as an educational consultant.

"I was availed of an opportunity that I don't think comes around very often," he said. "It was an opportunity for me to not only get the doctoral degree, but also for me to do some educational consulting."

Mr. Sagar had completed only the first year of a three-year contract when he resigned in June. He was paid $52,500, three-fourths of his $70,000 annual salary, for the second year as part of the settlement on his contract.

"I wanted to have some income security, obviously," Mr. Sagar said.

But Cazenovia officials are not talking about Mr. Sagar's departure. Two members of the Cazenovia school board, the new superintendent of schools, the schools' business manager and the lawyer for the Cazenovia school district all either declined to comment on Mr. Sagar's departure or failed to accept or return telephone calls to the Townsman this week and last week.

Some of those reached referred the calls to Dr. Lee Peters, district superintendent of the Board of Cooperative Education Services. Dr. Peters was the consultant who screened the candidates for Cazenovia last year and recommended Mr. Sagar for the job there. But he seemed surprised by the referrals.

"The only real contact I had with Mr. Sagar is that I was a consultant for the board," Dr. Peters said. "He came very highly recommended. He had excellent relationships among the staff and board."

"I thought he was an outstanding candidate. I do know that there was discussion and that he resigned."

Regarding the second year salary settlement, Dr. Peters agreed that it is unusual for an official to get a settlement when the official is the one who wants out of the contract.

"That would be a little unusual I think," he said.

"I still think the strengths I knew about when I recruited the man are still there," Dr. Peters said. "He came recommended as very good with people, very bright."

Two members of the Cazenovia Parent Teachers Association also had good things to say about Mr. Sagar.

"I found him to be a progressive educator and a real mover and shaker," said Robin Bilowski, co-vice president of the Cazenovia High School PTA.

She cited his involvement in erecting a new school building for the town, which she said hasn't had a new building for 50 years.

Mr. Sagar was a "refreshing change in a very, very conservative town," according to Mrs. Bilowski.

"I feel he got the short end of the stick here," she said.

The fact that Mr. Sagar is Jewish also may have caused some resentment from certain community members, Mrs. Bilowski said.

"I've heard rumors his religion caused him trouble," she said.

But Dr. Peters said he had not heard anything ever mentioned about anti-semitism.

"If I did you can be sure I'd be over there in a second," the district superintendent said.

Kathy White, the other vice-chairperson of the PTA, said she liked the way Mr. Sagar ran the school system.

"He was a real hands-on superintendent. He was very involved. You always saw him out and about, in the schools, in the community," she said.

There were two issues on which he and members of the school board disagreed, according to Mr. Sagar.

Cazenovia for years has been dealing with deteriorating school buildings, according to Mr. Sagar, and had studies done prior to his arrival. What he did was put a $22 million price tag on the recommendations made by a citizens group from those studies, according to Mr. Sagar.

The second issue was over a teachers' contract.

Some members of the community and school board believed the raises on which Mr. Sagar was willing to agree were too high, he said. They were in the vicinity of 9 and 10 percent, according to Mr. Sagar.

But a third issue had to do with legality of a meeting he had requested with the school board. He met with board officials outside the district and without public notice.

"It was a meeting held that wasn't scheduled to be held," Mr. Sagar said.

The subject of the meeting turned to his career options and the possible termination of his contract, according to Mr. Sagar.

He and the board then agreed to call the March 22 meeting to continue the discussions. But the minutes of the March 22 meeting misrepresent the intent of the discussions, according to Mr. Sagar, who said it was he who initiated talk of his leaving.

"I was quite upset when it ended up in the newspaper," he said.

Mr. Sagar said that the local newspapers painted a poor picture of the negotiations and that he still has a lot of supporters in Cazenovia.

"There are no quotes in those articles," Mr. Sagar said of the newspaper reports. "I think a lot of the reason nobody wants to talk to you is a lot of people feel very badly about that."

Experience

He began teaching in the Syracuse

City School District in 1972. He was certified as an accounting teacher and school administrator in 1975 and moved into the administrative offices that year. He received his superintendent certification in 1982.

Mr. Sagar was superintendent of the Broadalbin-Perth School District for two and one half years, from 1987-1989, and of the Broadalbin School District for three and a half years before that.

He began work on his doctoral dissertation in 1988. He has until July of 1991 to complete the dissertation, but he said this week that he hopes it would be complete before he starts the job in Andover, should he get it.

"If I start in January, I would hope to have it complete at that time," Mr. Sagar said.

Schools to shoulder most of budget cuts

rent economic climate."

School Committee Chairman Andres Salazar told the two other boards that his committee would propose $429,000 in cuts, plus another $150,000 in anticipation of increases in heating costs.

The School Committee will meet Tuesday, Oct. 23, to discuss ways to trim the schools' budget.

Some of the areas Mr. Salazar outlined for cuts were:

- $200,000 from the School Committee contingency funds;
- $32,000 from the textbook account;
- $40,000 from special education accounts, divided between tuitioned-out of-Andover students and transportation;
- $38,000 gained by eliminating one readiness position at Shawsheen School;
- $2,800 from intramural activities account;
- $54,000 from the energy account through conservation measures in the school buildings.

Susan Noble, manager of the Carlson Real Estate office in North Andover, announced that her office will become an ongoing sponsor of the national "New Eyes for the Needy" collection campaign.

New Eyes for the Needy is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to help provide better vision to the poor through the collection and recycling of discarded but reusable plastic and metal frame eyeglasses.

She talked during an interview last week about the current fiscal problems, her accomplishments during eight years in office and her Republican rival.

"I feel Gary lacks credibility for a number of reasons," Rep. Tucker said and mentioned his job and his experience. Mr. Coon answered her charges in the profile on him in today's Townsman.

"He's implying that I have not worked on reforms and budget cuts. Nothing could be further from the truth," she said. For months she helped write the budget reduction package, Rep. Tucker said.

"To imply that I have not been working to reform and streamline state government is not only a misrepresentation, it's a lie," she said.

Mr. Coon has called for cuts in the budget, but Rep. Tucker said he is vague on where he would make those cuts.

"I don't think he represents the values of this community in terms of education and environmental protection. I've never seen him involved in town government or community activities and I think that's where you start out."

Fiscal mess

Rep. Tucker blames a lot of the current negative attitude toward state government on talk shows and said the negativism is partly feeding on itself and makes her job more difficult.

"It's not Massachusetts, it's the entire Northeast," she said. "Contrary to popular opinion, New Hampshire is in worse shape than Massachusetts and people are beginning to realize that."

Her Record

Rep. Tucker said she was one of the legislators who took Gov. Michael Dukakis to court to force him to return local aid to cities and towns last year. "I voted to override that veto," she said.

Rep. Tucker said she voted no on the original tax package last November and worked against the 7 percent sales tax.

She supported the liquor sales on Sunday within 10 miles of the New Hampshire border and while she was an advocate for the expansion of the service tax, she said she worked to protect small businesses.

"I, and a few other reps, insisted that there be an exemption for small businesses," she said. "You want to protect the mom and pop and you want to protect the entrepreneurial spirit."

Since being elected in 1982 she has helped secure the state funding for the parking lot at Park Street Village, helped secure "millions for the water treatment plant," and put a rider on a bill to make sure the library got extra money as a regional library.

She has also worked for grants for the Andover Endowment for the Arts and to make sure the senior center has the constitution: Two separately sitting sessions of the state legislature (meaning two years) have to approve of the change and then the voters have to pass the amendment on a ballot vote. This amendment has passed two votes of the legislature.

Here's a summary of 2 of the questions

A yes vote would change the state constitution to abolish the state census, and to substitute the federal census as the basis for state redistricting.

A no vote would leave the state constitution unchanged, thus continuing the state census and its use as the basis for state redistricting.

Argument for:

It's plastic and glass Saturday

Thursday through Saturday until Nov. 24. Leaves are to be brought here for dumping, no boxes or bags left behind, please. The site is on High Plain Road across from the Community Gardens, one mile up High Plain Road from Greenwood Road. The site is fenced and monitors will be present.

Jim Bamford, who will operate the composting program, reports that his efforts to find monitors had failed, but after this column mentioned he was looking for people to employ, he had seven applications for the jobs and has hired two, plus some backups. He has reported to me that marketing research would say we must have had 700 readers to find seven applicants. They all told him they heard of the job through this column. If we get all the recycling problems solved, maybe I'll go into the help-wanted business.

Mr. Bamford corrected a mistake I had made in the article. The compost won't be ready until next fall. When the facility opens next fall to receive leaves, compost will be available to citizens and for town use. This is a beginning effort so there is no prediction on how much compost will be there. But we all should be aware of the directions from the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection, that by Dec. 31, 1991, no leaves will be allowed in any incinerator. This is your year to find a new method of disposal. Andover Recycling is very pleased that Andover is offering a solution, but at the same time, urges you to try your own compost pile in your own backyard.

Glass and paper every other week; plastic and aluminum once a month, leaves three days per week for six weeks. We are getting there!

Massachusetts is the only state that conducts its own census to reapportion legislative districts instead of relying on the federal census taken every 10 years. The 1985 state census cost the state about $6.5 million. It undercounted many cities and towns, throwing off the redistricting process. If we do not abolish the state census, the 1995 census could cost more than $10 million.

The Massachusetts legislature gave final approval to abolish the state census by a vote of 186-6 in June. Such an overwhelming vote says it's time to discard a relic of a past age.

The argument against: Abolition of the state census will deprive Massachusetts of its only independent tabulation of residents. We'll be left to rely on figures prepared by the federal government. Recent figures have been erratic. Massachusetts may lose one or two Congressional seats. Reports emanating from the Census Bureau indicate Boston has had the lowest response rate of any major U.S. city, but the erratic nature of the count is not limited to Boston.

A state census is administered by local clerks who are more familiar with communities and more able to provide an accurate count. Abolishing the state census will not save money because if we adopt inaccurate figures, resulting inequities, especially relating to the distribution of local aid, will cost municipalities much more.

Question 2: Restricting use of state consultants.

Summary: The proposed law would place restrictions on the state's use of consultants. It would place various limits on the amount of profit, overhead charges and expenses that the state could pay consultants. It would limit the duration of consultant contracts to two years and any extension to one year, and it would limit the degree to which such contracts could be changed to require payments in excess of the original contract.

The proposed law would limit to $100,000 the amount the state could pay on a consultant contract with an individual and would require all other consultant contracts in excess of $25,000 be sought through competitive bidding.

It would prohibit consultants from supervising state employees, and it would limit the use of consultants as substitutes for state employee positions.

In addition, the proposed law would place limits on the total amount of money state agencies, departments and authorities could spend on consultants each year.

The law would also require state agencies, departments and authorities as well as the secretary of administration and finance to submit yearly reports concerning the state's consultant contracts to certain legislative committees and to the inspector general.

Finally, the law provides that any of its provisions, if found by a court to be unconstitutional or otherwise unlawful, would be severed from law and the remaining provisions would continue in effect.

A yes vote would establish the proposed restrictions on the state government's use of consultants.

A no vote would not establish the proposed restrictions on the state government's use of consultants.

Argument for: Cut expenditures by minimizing consultants. Yes requires competitive bids on large consultant contracts to eliminate the risk of contracts being used as political pay-offs; forces state departments and authorities to lie on a consultant expenditure budget; stops the amending and amending of small consultant contracts into large consultant contracts.

While existing law prohibits consultants from substituting for state positions, loopholes have led to consultants performing routine, everyday tasks. Yes closes those loopholes. It stops the administration game of first hiring consultants and then pleading with the legislature to convert the consultants into employees.

Thousands of consultants who duplicate state services aren't needed. Other consultants are too expensive. More than 400 consultants on the artery/tunnel project cost more than $85 million per year.

The argument against: The state doesn't need more employees. If Question 2 passes, more than 40,000 new state employees will be hired to provide services to the mentally ill, elderly and the handicapped. All road and bridge repair in your community will stop immediately because there won't be qualified engineers to perform the work.

Cleanup of hazardous waste sites will fall further behind because private firms do all the cleanup. More than 20,000 construction jobs and $4 billion in federal funds involved in the Central Artery and Boston Harbor cleanup will be lost.

Next week: Ballot questions 2 and 3 will be summarized.

Tucker knocks Coon's credibility, experience

had adequate funding.

A bill recently filed by Rep. Tucker currently in front of the Legislature deals with domestic violence by modifying the state abuse prevention law.

"I'm the author of it," Rep. Tucker said. "It's a total rewrite of the law."

The crux of the bill requires mandatory arrest for violation of a restraining order.

"It also sets up a treatment system for the batters," she said.

At the same time, many projects in Lawrence have benefited from her involvement as well, according to Rep. Tucker.

Lawrence

Rep. Tucker helped rewrite Chapter 188, which she said returned hundreds of thousands of dollars for Horace Mann grants and the school improvement council.

"Lawrence got the lion's share of that, but there was money in there for suburbia as well," she said. "There was a lot of money that came back to Andover."

The state made a "phenomenal" amount of investment in Lawrence during the '80s, according to Rep. Tucker, including projects such as Heritage State Park, Riverfront Park, parking garages and housing.

And she said there are plans, not necessarily dependent on state funds, to revitalize Lawrence.

"We're going to do one end of Essex Street outlets," she said.

"You set up Essex Street with little shops and restaurants."

The plan would be to take advantage of the varied ethnic culture in the city.

"It's not all money. Part of it's attitude," she said. "It's a professional way of welcoming business."

Andover and Lawrence are linked, according to Rep. Tucker.

Many Andover residents do business or own businesses in Lawrence, she said.

She points out that the very name of the Lanam Club, made up of the initials of Lawrence, Andover, North Andover and Methuen, is symbolic of how this area is linked to its surroundings.

"Andover has an enormous amount to gain if Lawrence were to make a comeback," Rep. Tucker said. "Conversely, Andover has a lot to lose if Lawrence continues to deteriorate."

"I love representing Andover and Lawrence. I have the most interesting area," she said.

Abortion

Rep. Tucker also challenged Mr. Coon to clarify his stand on abortion.

"I'm always amazed at young men that want to make the Legislature make decisions for women on choice," she said.

"I basically believe that if it's within the first 24 weeks, it's a woman's choice," Rep. Tucker said. "It's my understanding that he wants the government to make that decision."

The 24-week limit is the specific issue in Roe vs. Wade, the Supreme Court's landmark abortion case. If that case is overturned, individual states will have to deal with the issue, according to Rep. Tucker.

Mr. Coon, also in an interview last week, said he would not vote on a constitutional amendment to ban abortion and he would support a woman's choice in the first 24 weeks of a pregnancy.

"That's an important issue and could end up in front of the Massachusetts legislature," Rep. Tucker said.

Campaign

"I have raised about $12,000, but that was just for the primary," Rep. Tucker said of her campaign funds.

She has raised $8,000-$10,000 more since then. "To spend more money than the job pays is shameful," Rep. Tucker said. "People are sick and tired of the role of money in politics," she said.

"I have knocked on doors and enjoy it but it's very time consuming and you get a three-minute conversation," she said.

"I have found coffees to be a more substantive way of campaigning," she said.

Local heroes

Asked if she has any people she greatly admires in life, heroes, Rep. Tucker answered that it's the many local, active people who inspire her.

"In every town I meet another group, another individual, who are just doing heroic things," she said.

She said the volunteers in the churches and the schools, at the Bread and Roses shelter, or Big Brothers and Sisters are her heroes.

"Those are the people that keep me going, the everyday heroes," Rep. Tucker said.

Personal

Rep. Tucker was born and grew up in Michigan. She has been in Andover "about 23 years."

She and her husband, Mike, have two sons, Mark, 19, and David, 21. Both young men went through the Andover public schools and both now attend Denison University in Ohio.

She has a bachelor of arts degree in English from Michigan State University and taught high school English in Lexington and one year at West Junior High here, before getting into politics.

"Then I spent about eight years in community involvement in Andover," she said.

She served on Andover's Central Business District committee during the 1970s, the Development and Industrial Commission in the late 1970s and the Industrial Development Financing Authority in the early 1980s. She was vice president of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, a president of the Andover LWV and a legislative assistant for two years before being elected in 1982.

Rep. Tucker was hired at a salary of $30,000 in 1982 and still gets paid the same today.

"It was $30,000 when I came in," Rep. Tucker said. "We had a raise for two years which was rescinded," she said. "We get mileage and some office expenses, it might be $33,000 all told."

Armed man evades police

By Don Staruk

An armed man who evaded an intensive manhunt in Den Rock Park Tuesday afternoon remained at large yesterday morning, according to North Andover police.

Andover, North Andover, Lawrence and state police took part in the search for Charles Lafave, 30, of the greater Lawrence area, after Mr. Lafave allegedly fired shots at a North Andover police officer near the Econo Lodge, on Route 114, and fled into the woods, according to Lt. Paul Gallagher of the North Andover police.

Lt. Gallagher described Mr. Lafave as being 5 foot 6, 165 pounds with brown hair and a goatee.

EDITORIALS

Some important dates

Some important dates are on the horizon for Andover residents.

The warrant for the Nov. 13 Town Meeting closes today, but if you're reading this editorial in the morning, there's still time to submit a citizen's item for the warrant. It takes 100 certified signatures for a petition to become a warrant. So if there's something on your mind that you'd like to see come up at Town Meeting, now is your chance.

The second important date is this coming Monday, 6:30 p.m. at Doherty Middle School, when the School Committee will interview the three finalists for the very-important position of superintendent of schools.

The more people involved in the interviews the better chance Andover has of hiring the best person for the job.

The School Committee is requesting question ideas from the public. Those questions must be submitted by Friday at 4 p.m. to Andres Salazar, chairman of the School Committee, at the school administration building on Whittier Street.

In addition, residents attending the Monday interviews will be able to write down questions during the evening and candidates will answer them.

Another important date is Thursday, Oct. 25, when the League of Women Voters is holding a debate of those running for the state senator and state representative seats. That debate is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library.

Here's your chance to hear the candidates speak on how they stand on the ballot questions, on abortion, on health insurance, on local aid, on whatever is on your mind.

Firefighter Mark Conlon shows Greg Kearns, son of Jim and Jackie Kearns of 10 Mohawk Drive, how the oxygen mask in the ambulance works. Firefighters say 350 to 400 attended Sunday's open house, where firefighters demonstrated the Jaws of Life and showed safety videos. Officials say one of the most popular parts of the day was a remote control Smokey the fire dog who firefighters made talk with the many children attending.

Dear Youth Line: My date is unhappy. . .

By Perry Catlin

You see one of your fellow students in algebra class cheating on a test. What do you do?

You'd like to ask your date to help pay for the movies and dinner. How can you go about accomplishing that embarrassing task?

Try Youth Line, a new column that will begin soon in the Townsman. We're excited about the concept. The we in this case are members of the Peer Leadership Corps at Andover High School; Laura Goodman, a psychotherapist who works at The Delphi Center of Andover, at 68 Park St.; and me, the editor of this paper and the mother of two, ages 18 and 20, and three step-children, ages 18, 22 and 24. I also have a bachelor of science degree in education.

Here's how it will work. Anyone who wishes can phone in or write in a question for the Youth Line. The question will be answered by three people: a teen-ager who is a Peer Counselor, Laura Goodman, and me. We thought it would be interesting to read the point of view of three different ages and backgrounds.

Students of any age, parents, shopkeepers, grandfathers, priests, whoever, can telephone 475-8690 Mondays from 3:30 to 5:30 to ask a question. Then the three will get busy answering it and three answers will appear in the Townsman. If you prefer to write down the question, send it to The Delphi Center, attention Youth Line, or send it here to the Townsman, 89 North Main St. We're looking forward to hearing from you.

Hey, football parents, give us a break. Last week, we had no coverage of the Andover High School football game. I had three or four telephone calls from disappointed parents.

That's fine, I'm glad you'll phone me and speak your mind. So for two days I heard about how terrible we were to leave out the story. One man even said the football coverage this fall has been terrible.

Finally, I found some time to do my homework. Here's what I found:

Sept. 9 issue: A pre-season look at the team ran on the first page of sports.

Sept. 20 issue: Two stories, one on coach Dick Collins with a photo, and one game story with a large photo.

Sept. 27: A story that ran on the first sports page with two photos.

Oct. 4: A story, no photo, that ran on the first sports page.

Oct. 11: No story.

And by the way, sports writer Rick Harrison wrote a story for the Oct. 11 issue and I'd like to say that the computer ate it, but Rick thinks he just forgot to save it. So truth is we had every intention of running a football story, but we goofed.

I don't like to be defensive and uptight about our decisions here, but I do feel we were unfairly accused in this case.

I kept wondering Friday night during the talk at Phillips Academy by their graduate, Pulitzer-Prize winner H.G. Bissinger, author of "Friday Night Lights," what he would have thought of my dilemma with the football parents. He talked about his year of living in a community in Texas that lives and breathes high school football. He told us with some sadness that once a student finishes up a career of being a football hero, his life is pretty much over. And he averted us with stories about the female Pepetts, whose main role in their high school career is to keep members of the team happy. Cooking brownies, backrubs, doing whatever

He wants Phillips to act on racial incident

Editor, Townsman:

As a former resident of Andover, I would like to comment on the recent racial incident at Phillips Academy.

I am uncertain whether I am more disgusted and offended by the actions of the skinheads or by the apparent inaction of the Phillips' officials. It is impossible not to wonder if it had been blacks abusing and threatening whites would the school have treated the matter so casually?

Editorial comment on the appearance of the skinheads, when interviewed, but not of their cowardly and contemptible behavior seems strange indeed. The victims seem not to have been interviewed.

The public has a right and a moral need to know exactly what the hoodlums said and did in order to judge the extent of the sickness that has appeared in Andover. This kind of sickness can only get worse if not dealt with firmly and immediately.

Has the Townsman the decency, the courage and the integrity to speak out? It is a town problem as well as the schools.

Some of the incumbents are effective

Editor, Townsman:

When I listen to people who espouse the "let's throw-the-bums-out" mentality, I am reminded of the adage necessary.

Dear Youth Line: My date . . .

Ah well. Perhaps that's more Texas than east coast.

There's another group of sports parents who are miffed with us. It's the youth soccer parents. A few issues ago we had to cut the Under-10 kids because space wouldn't permit us to run all of it. We got some calls about that, let me tell you. Yes, we know sports are important, and we do our best to accommodate everyone who cares about them, but every section in every paper almost always has to make some cuts. When dealing with the soccer cuts, I found several people don't understand how papers get the size that "People who stand for nothing, will fall for anything".

It is an absurd notion that all legislators are lazy and unresponsive. Clearly there are some politicians who deserve defeat. Other elected representatives, like our own Sue Tucker, have been dedicated, effective, and responsible servants of their community.

'Throwing everyone out' is not the way to solve our problems in health care, education and the state's business climate. There are some incumbents who have proven very effective in addressing these issues critical to our needs.

I have grave concerns about our future if we elect our representatives based on simplistic anger which tars everyone with the same broad brush. In some cases, the alternatives to incumbents are so ill-informed and inexperienced that they cannot even begin to define the problem, much less be a part of the solution.

Vote for the children

Editor, Townsman:

I am writing to you as a member of the Children '90 Campaign, which is a non-partisan statewide effort to increase public awareness of children's needs and make children a top priority of candidates in the 1990 elections.

Each of us must realize that we have a stake in providing all children with the proper physical and emotional care that they need to get a healthy start in life. Providing this care is not only morally right, it is also economically beneficial.

Every dollar spent now on preventing ill health, family violence, teen-age pregnancy, child abuse and they are.

Ever notice that most papers are larger at Christmas time, for instance. That's because there's lots of advertising (we hope) at that time of year. Our goal is to keep a good ratio of editorial information to ads. So sometimes even if we'd like to run 20 pages of sports, we can't devote that much space to the subject.

Have you seen Macartney's brochure for its Harvest Time, Oct. 12 through Nov. 3. It's about a three-week sale. But what impressed us is the large map included in the brochure that included the street names, but also the names of other businesses. Now that's downright neighborly.

neglect, school failure, illiteracy, substance abuse and homelessness saves dollars in costs later for hospitalization, incarceration, welfare, job training and other expensive remedial efforts.

As responsible citizens of this state, we must take the time to find out how our candidates for public office stand on children's issues in our local community as well as in the larger community and how they plan to invest in children now. Once elected, we must then hold them accountable for their actions. Our future depends on it!

Legislators reflect the priorities of their districts and constituents, but they cannot respond and act if we do not make our priorities known.

Children cannot vote, but you can. Vote children in '90.

Voting yes on Question 3

Editor, Townsman:

I am voting yes on Question 3. I have listened to both sides and have decided to vote so because of what I believe has not been addressed.

The opponents claim that anywhere from $1.2 billion to $2.6 billion (I have seen various figures) will be cut from the state's operating income. They claim this will result in cuts so severe that some people will die because of them.

I would like to point out that the state will still have $12 billion to spend. Now $12 billion is a lot of money. How this money is spent is not the responsibility of the CLT question. The spending will be the result of the decisions made by those in control. No one has to die. The cuts do not have to be in the areas that the opponents claim will happen. They could come from eliminating agencies such as the MDC and selling state property to add to the treasury.

We should be more concerned about who we put in office to make those decisions. If CLT does not pass and business by the state proceeds as usual, be assured we will be facing further taxes next year and the year after that, and on and on. This economy cannot afford such a scenario.

With that said, I can not help but wonder what will happen to the $1.2 to $2.6 billion that will go back to the taxpayers. I do not think we taxpayers will hoard it in our mattresses or bury it in our backyards.

It seems to me that we would either put it into banks or spend it in the economy; $1.2 to $2.6 billion saved or spent in this state's sagging economy just might jump start it. This, in turn, would allow the state to collect more in taxes on the sales and income that would be generated from such a happening. Since the state cannot collect taxes on any money it spends, it seems to me this return of capital from the state to the private sector would encourage business to grow and, in turn, increase the tax revenues for the state. This increase, along with the proper cuts made by the politicians we will wisely put into office, could create the next Massachusetts' miracle and everyone wins.

And for that reason, I am voting yes on Question 3.

Vote against questions 2, 3, 5

Editor, Townsman:

On Nov. 6 the citizens of Massachusetts will vote on a number of ballot questions that will have a tremendous impact on the welfare of our state and on all of our lives.

Question 3, sponsored by Citizens for Limited Taxation, would roll state taxes and fees back to 1988 levels and would force the state to pay taxpayers back for tax increases that have been collected. This proposal will reduce the state budget by $2 billion annually (out of $13 billion). Experts estimate that if the CLT petition passes there will be cuts of at least 30 percent to local aid, human services and higher education.

Questions 2 demands drastic reductions in state money spent on consultants. Human services in this state are delivered predominantly by private, non-profit agencies that may be defined as "consultants." Passage of this seemingly reasonable proposal could endanger the existence of services for the mentally ill, homeless, elders, children, battered women, etc.

Election policy

The Townsman will accept letters about the Nov. 6 election and about candidates up until the second to last issue before the election.

In other words, letters about the election will be printed in next week's issue, dated Oct. 25, but will not be printed in the Nov. 1 issue.

The paper will not print letters that are obvious efforts to flood the paper with the same information.

In addition, the paper will no longer print letters from candidates thanking their voters for their support.

LETTERS

Question 5, sponsored by the Mass. Municipal Association, would guarantee 40 percent of all state revenues for local aid. This seems like a sensible and reasonable demand for our struggling cities and towns. The impact, however, coupled with Question 3, would be devastating to human services and higher education since these are the remaining "discretionary" areas of state funding.

As the board of directors of the Women's Resource Center, a shelter for battered women in the Greater Lawrence and Haverhill areas, we are adamantly opposed to questions 2, 3 and 5.

If the Citizens for Limited Taxation (petition question) passes, it would close the doors of between nine and 11 of the 32 battered women's programs in Massachusetts. It would deny services to at least 5,000 women and children in 1991.

Vital support services for battered women, such as welfare, housing, legal aid, would also be drastically reduced.

The result of voting in favor of these questions will be a budget that will be balanced on the backs of the state's neediest citizens, on the backs of our children.

We urge all citizens to vote no on questions 2, 3 and 5. Please talk to your friends and neighbors. It's important that each person be aware of the impact of their vote. Vote no on questions 2, 3 and 5, do your part to keep Massachusetts and battered women alive.

Nancy Greenwood, president, for the WRC board of directors.

The news calendar is on page 41 in today's Townsman. If you have an item for any of the paper's calendars, they must be at the office by 5 p.m. Monday.

We are one of several APPLE FARMS in the area so we want to thank you for your patronage and your many compliments.

Cast members from the Merrimack Junior Theatre Company's production of "No, No, a Million Times No" play warm-up games before a recent rehearsal. In the foreground are Marc D'Agostino and Jason Pratt. In the back are Andrew LaRochelle, Kel O'Neill, Susannah Parker, Margo Nothnagel and Joanna Gordon, all of Andover.

Young actors rehearse musical

The "corn" will sprout in earnest next month on the stage of Doherty Middle School Memorial Auditorium when 56 members of the Merrimack Junior Theatre Company present "No, No, a Million Times No!"

The musical melodrama, written in the late '50s by Eskel Crawford and Bud Tomkins, features not only a country setting, but a full platter of corn-fed clichés and characters: a noble hero, dastardly villain, poor but honest farmer and his daughter — a heroine who's as "pure as the driven snow" — carefree country youth, dangerous city women and a "siren" who sings of men as "moths" to be drawn to her "flame."

"No, No ..." will be staged on Nov. 9, 10 and 11.

Children in the second through sixth grades from seven area towns are in the cast. Andover actors and actresses are Sarah Anderson, Erin Baggerger, Amanda Beale, David Bissett, Ben Bradway, Greg Brennan, David Byers, Allana Clarke, Liz Clinkenbeard, Leigh Croteau, Marc D'Agostino, Jenny Detterman, Robin Detterman, Chris Farr, Jared Feinberg, Llesl Flinn, Jesse Gal-

"No, No..." will be directed by Andover music teacher Josie Walker. This is MJT's fourth season; the company produces two musicals per year, one for younger actors and actresses and a second for students in the sixth grade and up.

Auditions for the spring play for older students will be held in December; all auditions are open to children from all towns in the Merrimack Valley area.

Concert benefits Habitat projects

A concert of classical and modern music to benefit the Greater Lawrence Habitat for Humanity will be held at Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover Friday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m.

The program features music by Mozart, Schubert, Chopin, Gounod, Ewald and Bolling; arias by Schumann, Brahms and Mendelssohn; and selections from "Porgy and Bess" and the "Tuba Tiger Rag."

The performers include pianist Ernest Goldman, flutist Katherine Kleitz, soprano Linda Hossfeld, alto and pianist Barbara Spencer and the Commonwealth Brass Quintet.

Mr. Goldman, a Viennese-trained pianist, has been a soloist with numerous orchestras. A retired engineer/physicist, he has made a life-long study of the classical piano.

Ms. Kleitz holds a master of music degree from the New England Conservatory and has studied with James Pappoutsakis and Jean-Pierre Rampal. She teaches and performs in the Greater Boston area and is a founding member of the Row Twelve Contemporary Music Ensemble.

Ms. Hossfeld has a master of music degree from Boston University and studied at the American Institute of Music in Graz, Austria. She teaches at Concord Academy and performs in the Boston area.

Ms. Spencer has taught piano and performed with choruses in Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Boston and Bethlehem, Pa. She sings with the Masterworks Chorale.

The Commonwealth Brass Quintet has performed in Jordan Hall, Charlestown Navy Yard and Quincy Market. The quintet performed at a reception for former President Gerald Ford in 1986 and at the wedding of Maria Shriver and Arnold Schwarzenegger.

The musicians include Robert Fleck and Charles Suffin, trumpets; Myra Little-Porter, French horn; Georgia Bills, trombone; and John O'Toole, tuba. The CBQ will perform in the Brass Choral Christmas Concert with the Merrimack Valley Chorale on Friday, Dec. 7, at Andover Town Hall.

Since graduation from Tufts University in 1984, Mr. Suffin has played with the Greater Marlboro Symphony, Symphony Pro Musica and the Southeastern Massachusetts Community Concert Band.

Ms. Bills is a graduate of Ithaca College and former music teacher. She directs music at the Andover Unitarian Universalist Church and accompanies the Merrimack Valley Chorale.

The exhibitors will include academy faculty, parents, alumni and friends as well as members of local garden associations.

Indian musicians give concert, workshop

Two musicians from India will perform a concert of classical Indian music Tuesday, Oct. 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the Timken Recital Room in Graves Hall on the Phillips Academy campus.

Flutist Pandit Hariprasad Chaurasia and Fazal Hussain Qureshi, who plays the tabla - a pair of small drums - will give an Indian music workshop in the Timken Recital Room at noon the same day.

Vada, an Indian appetizer, and some bread and curries will be served at the workshop.

Mr. Chaurasia is acclaimed world over for his mastery of the flute.

"Playing with unsurpassed elegance, his rendering of classical music is unusually imaginative and is characterized by a complete command over 'layakari,' the rhythmic structure of music," one critic said.

He has performed

internationally and participated in music festivals organized in nearly every country of the continents of Europe, America, Asia and in Australia.

Mr. Chaurasia has several recordings to his credit and, in collaboration with Pandit Shivkumar Sharma ("Shiv-Hari"), has composed music for many films.

In recognition of his outstanding contributions in Indian classical music, the Sangeet Natak Akademy Indian Academy of Music, Dance and Drama, present-

Habitat's objective is to eliminate poverty housing and provide deserving families with decent, affordable housing.

ed its national award to him in 1984.

Mr. Qureshi started learning tabla at a very young age under the guidance of his father, Ustad Alla Rakha. His older brother, Zakir Husain, also a tabla player, has given him encouragement and guidance and served as a role model. Mr. Qureshi has accompanied many prominent musicians in India and abroad.

The main body of the tabla is made of wood and to the right of the player, according to John Levy of Nonesuch Records. "It is tuned to the tonic or occasionally to the fourth or fifth (of a scale)," he said.

The "banya" part of the instrument is metal and on the left of the musician; it produces the bass notes.

The tabla's "playing pitch is controlled by pressure of the lower palm of the left hand on the surface of the skin (of the drum)," Mr. Levy said.

The public is invited to the concert and/or workshop. There is no charge for admission.

Photos of library on exhibit

"Ex Libris," an exhibit of photographs of Memorial Hall Library by Richard Graber of 212 Salem St., will open Saturday, Oct. 20, at Andover Books & Prints, 68 Park St.

A reception for Mr. Graber, open to the public free of charge, is planned from 3 to 5 p.m.

"Most of the photos in this show are of people and activities associated with the library during the past 30 years," said David Rodger, who owns the bookshop. "But there are also stunning images of the facility itself."

A framed montage, completed in 1967, featuring former library director Miriam Putnam of 57 High St., will be presented to Patricia Edmonds of 70 Elm St., chairwoman of the library's trustees. The photo will hang in the library after the exhibition.

The show continues through Nov. 10. Andover Books & Prints is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

AHS gridgers are on the ball again after two wins

By Rick Harrison

What a difference two weeks can make.

The Andover High varsity football team had some serious doubts about itself after Tewksbury gave it a 31-6 blow to the mid-section a fortnight ago, leaving the Golden Warriors reeling at 1-2-0 with potentially-difficult opponents Lowell and Haverhill on the immediate horizon.

The resuscitation began with a Matt Perry-to-Brett Hammond aerially-induced 21-6 triumph over Lowell, and continued last Saturday when Dave Blank chewed up 141 yards of soggy turf and scored twice on short plunges to join forces with the rain in ruining Haverhill's Homecoming, 20-10.

Suddenly Coach Dick Collins' crew is not only alive and breathing, but it can begin re-entertaining serious thoughts about at least sharing the Merrimack Valley Conference championship.

At 3-2-0 Andover is locked in a three-way tie for second place, just one game behind co-leaders Chelmsford and Tewksbury (both 4-1-0) who have yet to play one another.

Tewksbury came back to the pack last weekend with an odd 3-2 loss to St. John's Prep, which came on the heels of an equally-unusual 6-4 triumph over Haverhill.

Ostensibly the Warriors have scratched and clawed through the toughest part of their schedule, although you just can't play those paper games in the MVC.

Tomorrow night at 7, Dracut (2-3-0), which caught Chelmsford napping 15-14 earlier this season, invades Lovely Field with every intention of spoiling Andover's annual Homecoming party.

The evening's festivities will include the parade of Class floats and appearance of the Homecoming Queen and King at halftime.

There is also, of course, Central Catholic to contend with at Thanksgiving time.

Sloshing past Haverhill

As it has in virtually every game this fall, Andover started the rain-drenched Haverhill contest with an impressive touchdown march on its first possession.

This time, in fact, the Warriors doubled their fun by scoring twice in the opening 7:14.

Colin Arsenault came close to breaking an 84-yard kickoff return to start the game, but had to settle for a 50-yard runback when the Hillies' Scott Redfearn collared him from behind at the Haverhill 34.

Dave Blank, whose 141-yard afternoon boosted his season total to 457 yards in four games (he missed the Tewksbury contest), carried six consecutive times to advance the ball to the nine.

These unique Super Saturday clinics are open to any youngster age 9-18 years in Andover and the surrounding Merrimack Valley area.

Boys division

Each boys' session will run from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Andover resident Charlie Ryan, former Lowell High boys' varsity coach, is the camp director. Ryan is regarded as one of the top hoop coaches in New England, and he has assembled a group of first-rate area high school and college coaches on his staff.

Included are Andover High varsity skipper Dave Fazio, Dennis Holt (Chelmsford), Charlie Micol (Tewksbury), Tom Gallagher (Dracut), Ed Scollan (Westford Academy), Jim Weymouth (Methuen), Dan O'Rourke (Lawrence), Buzz McHale (Tyngsboro), Al Patterson (Lowell) and many more.

Dennis Canney of Lowell will serve as program director.

This year's guest lecturers are all Division 1 college head coaches in New England, including Jim Boylen (UNH), George Blaney (Holy Cross), Bob Brown (Boston University) and Paul Cormier (Dartmouth).

Girls' volleyball is alive and in first place

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls' volleyball team has never won a Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division championship.

Until last week the Lady Warriors appeared destined for another second place finish in 1990, with the biggest challenge being the quest for a third straight state Division 1 North Sectional tournament berth.

But now first place appears attainable, with the formerly invincible Chelmsford High girls showing definite signs of mortality.

A recent 2-0 loss to Dracut sent the Lady Lions into a three-match tailspin, with subsequent losses to Billerica (2-0) and Lowell (2-1) leaving Chelmsford vulnerable.

While CHS was struggling, Andover registered a pair of important victories over Billerica (2-1) and Lowell (2-0).

Those results moved AHS within one match of the leading Lions, 7-4 in the MVC and 8-4 overall. The Lady Warriors, 33-11 and North Sectional semifinalists the last two years, entered this week winners of two straight and four of their last five.

Chelmsford is 10-3 overall, 8-3 in the league.

"We need four more wins (12 overall) to make the tournament," said Coach Art Iworsley. "But it's exciting that we have a shot at first place. And our destiny is in our own hands."

Andover does control its own fate because it has a match left with Chelmsford, and appropriately enough that showdown is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon in the Dunn Gymnasium (3:30 p.m. JV, approximate 4:15 varsity tapoff).

The Lions had a rugged schedule earlier this week, facing an angry Lawrence High team (8-3) smarting from a loss to Haverhill and then meeting Haverhill (7-5) last night.

Andover began the week with weak Methuen (0-11), but fell back into the fire yesterday at Lawrence.

AHS also has tough battles left with Haverhill (next Monday at home) and unbeaten Dracut, the Middies' match a part of the fourth annual "Chelmsford High Volleyball Night" Tuesday, Oct. 30.

Andover, 2-1

The Lady Warriors romped 15-5 in game one, stumbled 13-15 in game two, and blew the Indians off the court 15-1 in game three.

Junior Lea Conserva, whose 15 straight points closed out a recent rout of Wilmington, had 13 in a row during the final game against BMHS.

Co-Capt. Ayanna Littrean was sharp with her back-row defense, serve-reception and hitting, senior Nicole Thompson and junior Meghan Mueller played strong all-around, sophomore Kerry Hagerly excelled serving and hitting, and senior Nancy Troy contributed one kill and one strong block during her brief-but-effective third-game stint.

"Billerica was fresh off its victory over Chelmsford," noted Coach Iworsley. "They played well and they played tough. But our girls were better."

Andover, 2-0

Lowell, which also stunned Chelmsford the match before it faced Andover, took the locals to overtime twice before falling 17-15, 17-15.

"Lowell has to be the best 4-7 team in the state," said Iworsley. "This was an exciting match for the spectators, but a gray-hair producer for the coach."

"The first game was close all the way, and when it got to 14-13 in our favor we had six chances to put them away before they tied it and forced overtime. Each of the six players on the floor for us had the opportunity to put the game away on service, but no one did. Every time we served Lowell played excellent defense."

Meghan Mueller finally produced the final point.

"We were up 10-6 in the second game, but in an eyeblink Lowell tied it 12-12," said Iworsley. "We made a few mistakes to let them back in it, but they never took the lead."

The final two Andover points belonged to Ayanna Littrean.

"After beating Chelmsford I'm sure they felt they could beat anyone," explained Iworsley.

Andover JVs

Coach Gregory Yatskar's junior varsity crew tasted defeat for the first time, losing two straight games to Lowell to snap an 11-match win streak that had been extended with a 2-0 (15-8, 15-9) sweep of Billerica.

Playing well in the Billerica match were Julie Gediman (setting and serving), Julie Doherty (hitting and defense), Sarah Tully (serving) and Lee Hendricks (all-around).

Andover, 11-1 overall, raced to 6-0 leads in both games against Lowell before bowing 7-15, 9-15.

Allen goal highlights girls' soccer week

By Rick Harrison

Senior forward and Tri-Capt. Lisa Allen's last-minute goal to beat Bridgewater-Raynham highlighted a tremendous week for the Andover High girls' varsity soccer team, which defeated a pair of tough non-league opponents and regained sole possession of first place in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

The Lady Warriors launched the difficult schedule by traveling to Concord-Carlisle and whitewashing the former five-time state Division 1 champions (1982-86), 3-0.

Next in line was an even longer bus ride to Bridgewater-Raynham, but the trip was worth it as AHS rallied in the second half to pull out a 2-1 triumph on Allen's clutch goal with 39 seconds to play.

First place in the MVC, a familiar location for the four-time defending league champs, came when Andover whitewashed Dracut 3-0 and previous co-leader Billerica was held to a 0-0 tie by Lowell.

Coach Dick Loschi's club began the week with a 7-1 MVC record and a 10-2-1 overall mark.

The 15 league points place Andover one ahead of Billerica, the Indians at 6-1-2 for 14, and both have three MVC games remaining.

Andover battled much-improved Lowell (5-2-2 league, 5-4-2 overall) earlier this week, and wraps up conference play by hosting weak Wilmington (1-9-0) and pesky Tewksbury (5-2-1, 6-5-1).

The Lady Warriors step out of league place two more times this weekend, traveling to Peabody High tomorrow afternoon (3:30 p.m.) and hosting traditional South Shore power Foxboro High Saturday evening (6 o'clock) at Lovely Field.

The two non-leaguers should be excellent tuneups for the Eastern Mass. Division 1 Tournament.

Andover, 2-1.

Coach Loschi was wary about this game because "we saw Bridgewater-Raynham during the pre-season and they showed us very little."

"They started the season slowly, but had won six straight games coming into this one." B-R netted the only goal of the first half, carrying that slender 1-0 advantage into the locker room.

"It became gut-check time for us," said Loschi. "We made a couple small adjustments in our attack. Bridgewater has a narrow field, and we like width so we can get our passing game going. Instead we found ourselves bunched in the middle a lot."

"But our defense shut them off totally the second half, and we made the most of our offensive chances."

Andover likely qualified against Lowell, but entered that game needing just one point in its final five contests to clinch a sixth straight tourney berth.

Loschi also continues his march towards his 100th coaching victory at Andover, standing 89-16-12 to date.

AHS has outscored its 13 opponents by a whopping 46-7 margin this fall, including 38-5 in MVC play.

Junior forward Nicole Angelos leads the balanced scoring parade with nine goals, seven assists, 16 points. Also in double figures are Lisa Allen (5-8-13), Tri-Capt. Anne Murnane (6-7-12) and sophomore forward Hilary Recesso (9-2-11).

Boys' soccer team may qualify for division tourney for 12th time

By Rick Harrison

Three points in three games.

If the Andover High boys' varsity soccer team can accomplish that seemingly easy task, it will qualify for the Eastern Mass. Division 1 Tournament for the 12th time in 15 years.

It doesn't sound too difficult, until you stop to consider that as well as the Golden Warriors have played this fall - they are still averaging just a shade over one point per contest.

Then toss into the mix the reality that the final two games are against Billerica and Chelmsford. Suddenly the tournament picture gets a little cloudy.

Billerica may also desperately need a victory to qualify for the tourney, while Chelmsford may need the win to clinch the Merrimack Valley Conference title. For sure the Lions will want the two points for a higher tournament seeding.

So the regular-season homestretch will test the Golden Warriors' mettle and their resolve. The tough triple began yesterday with a game at Central Catholic (4-6-2). Billerica (5-2-6) invades Lovely Field this Saturday at 2 p.m., and Chelmsford (9-1-2) comes to town next Wednesday night for the 7 p.m. finale at Lovely.

Coach Dave Amundsen's club was involved in three one-goal games the first time around against these three challengers, edging Central and Billerica 2-1 and bowing to Chelmsford 1-0.

Two valuable points slipped away last weekend when red-hot Lowell (5-0-2 last seven) edged the Warriors, 2-1. AHS also hammered Haverhill 6-0 earlier in the week.

With the exception of the Haverhill blowout the Warriors have been struggling offensively, managing just two goals in the previous four games.

"What put us in this (precarious) position was getting zero of a possible four points in our two non-league games," explained Amundsen.

Andover would be sitting pretty now, already in the tourney, had it not lost to powerful Concord-Carlisle (4-1) and North Andover (3-0).

AHS entered yesterday's Central game with a 7-2-2 league record and 7-4-2 overall mark.

Senior forward Mike Henry continues to lead the Large School Division in scoring with 11 goals, seven assists, 18 points. He is second overall in the league to Wilmington sharpshooter John Lynch.

After Henry the AHS scoring drops way off, however, and a hip injury to junior forward Chris Zappala (6-3-9) hasn't helped matters.

ACBL is holding registration

The Andover Church Basketball League is holding registration for the 1990-91 season.

Youth who live in Andover and do not attend a town church, or youth who attend an Andover church that does not have a team, may also register for the league.

Registration forms are available from the following coordinators: Ray Giggons, Ballardvale United; Ed Rouillard, Free Christian; Jane Cassidy and Ed Stewart, St. Augustine; Bob French, St. Robert's Bellarmine.

Forms may also be picked up at the Andover Hockey Shop and Red Harris Sporting Goods.

The fee is $15.

The league is comprised of four divisions: Junior (8-9 years), Intermediate boys (10-11 years), Intermediate girls (10-13 years), Senior boys (12-13 years).

The league age is figured as of Sept. 1. Juniors play on Wednesday nights, while all other divisions play Sunday afternoons.

Basketball clinic dates set

Apply early because the clinics will be filled to capacity.

Discounts are available for two or more in a family, and for those pre-scheduling fewer sessions.

Applications can be obtained by calling Ryan at 475-4654.

Girls division

Due to the popularity and emergence of girls' basketball on the high school level in the Merrimack Valley, the girls' clinics will resume on the same four dates: Oct. 27, Nov. 3, 10 and 17.

The girls' sessions will run from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

The girls' staff will consist of head coaches George Sullivan (Andover), Al Richards (Chelmsford), John Moore (Lowell), Barry McCloskey (St. Mary's of Lawrence), Mickey O'Brien (Notre Dame Academy), Andover resident Ed Kelley (Northern Essex and Emmanuel), Judy Victory (Chelmsford), Denise Moore (Lowell) and many more.

Some of the featured speakers for the girls will be head coach Kathy O'Neil of ULowell, who will bring along her team to demonstrate skill drills, Barbara Stevens (Bentley), Kathy Delaney-Smith (Harvard) and Margo Plotzke (Boston College).

Clinic officials feel there is a definite need for a fall basketball program geared to getting the girls prepared for the upcoming season. It should also give those attending a headstart in terms of making the team.

As with the boys, applications are available from Ryan.

AHS gridders win two

Quarterback Matt Perry, who had trouble gripping the ball all day and finished an uncharacteristic 2-for-10 for 18 yards, capped the drive by hitting favorite target Brett Hammond wide open in the left corner of the end-zone for the touchdown.

Hammond, who caught two passes in this game, now has 33 receptions on the season including four for touchdowns.

Hammond, 31 points overall, also split the uprights with the conversion for a quick 7-0 lead after just 3:54 had elapsed.

The Hillies had another chance just before the half, after Eric MacKinnon intercepted a pass, but linebackers Stefan Fodor, Ryan Kelly and Lowry stopped the run while defensive backs Perry and Hurley baited down a long Redfearn bomb intended for Guertin.

Ball control

The field remained a factor in the second half, when the rain was intermittently light and heavy.

Solid defense by 6-3, 276-pound tackle Erik Greenstein and 6-2, 220-pound Garrett Ferris forced a Haverhill punt four plays later. Greenstein smashed through to block Redfearn's kick, with Mark Avery pouncing on the ball at the Hillies' 43.

An interception set up the final Andover TD, a 13-play, 48-yard march capped by a spinning two-yard run from Blank.

Blank lugged the ball seven times for 26 hard-earned yards, Mark Dodge contributed an excellent 16-yard scamper, and short bursts were added by Greg Dyer and junior Dan Feeley.

Brett Hammond followed the touchdown with his seventh conversion kick of the season, lifting the lead to 20-3 with just 1:38 remaining.

Redfearn needed just 74 seconds of clock time to engineer a seven-play, 59-yard drive for the Hillies' lone score, which came with 24 seconds to play.

Redfearn scrambled three times for 34 yards, tossed an 11-yard aerial to Matt Woelfel, and was aided by a personal foul penalty against the Warriors.

Redfearn eventually crashed over from the one, and Scanlon added the kick to make it 20-10.

Leveling Lowell

Lowell was the opponent everyone knew Andover had to beat to salvage the season.

"This was a very important win," emphasized Coach Collins. "A loss there and we would have had a tough time regrouping."

"Getting Dave Blank and Mark Dodge back was important, defensively as much as offensively," continued the veteran coach. "It was a great hitting game. Without question we executed much better and hit much harder than we had the previous week against Tewksbury."

"I felt we held our own in the line with them, and took it to them offensively. But a couple key turnovers, penalties in crucial situations, and our porous defense combined to kill us."

Aerial assault

The Perry-to-Hammond Connection worked well all night, Hammond gathering in eight passes for 123 yards and one touchdown.

Andy Carleton made a pair of catches for 34 yards, one an acrobatic beauty early in the contest, and Blank's triumphant return to the lineup featured 77 yards rushing in 15 carries and two short touchdown runs.

Blank plowed over and Hammond added the kick, Garrett Ferris snapping the ball and Rich DeAngelis making the placement for a 7-0 edge at 4:44.

Lowell struck back with its lone touchdown, a 33-yard sprint by Mark Cote who finished with 86 yards in 18 carries. But the try for two and the lead faded.

The Red Raiders threatened again immediately, after a fumble recovery at the end of a 24-yard Matt Perry run. But the defense, led on this stand by Mark Dodge, Dan Waitkevitch and Stefan Fodor, forced LHS to surrender on downs at the Andover 23.

Late in the half the Warriors drove 76 yards in nine plays for their second TD, keys - a 20-yard pass to Carleton, a 16-yard run by Blank on a draw, and three passes to Hammond for six, 11 and eight yards. The latter completion went for the TD, and Hammond toed the extra to make it 14-6 with 12 seconds left in the half.

Collins' Crew added its final touchdown on its opening series of the second half, marching 74 yards in eight plays.

Blank rambled 20 yards, and five more were tacked on by an unintentional facemask penalty against Lowell. Perry hit Blank with a nine-yard pass, found Hammond for 24 yards to the 15, and then three Blank runs went for seven, one, seven yards and the touchdown.

Hammond's third consecutive PAT wrapped up the attack at 6:45 of the third quarter.

Lowell turned the ball over four times in the late going, Jim Landry pouncing on a third-quarter fumble, Matt Perry intercepting a pass at the AHS 23 early in the fourth, and Blank picking off two more passes at the Warriors' three and 10 yard line with 1:38 and 25 seconds to play.

Statistics

Both teams finished with 11 first downs, while Andover held advantages in yards rushing (123-92), yards passing (168-91), total yardage (291-183) and scrimmage plays (56-55).

Dan Feeley punted three times, including a 45-yarder, and sophomore Steve Shepard punted for the second time this season and unloaded a 27-yarder in the final minute of play.

It was also "Freshman Football Recognition Night," with the undefeated ninth grade squad introduced at halftime.

Allen goal highlights girls' soccer week

Hilary Recesso tied it 1-1 at the 17:52 mark, scoring from a scramble in front with the assist to Lisa Allen.

"Hilary has been good all year at picking up loose balls in front and putting them in the net," noted Loschi.

The tie appeared etched in granite until lightning struck with 39 seconds left, Allen taking a pass from Anne Murnane and rifling a shot past the Bridgewater-Raynham keeper.

"Obviously we were ecstatic," said Loschi. "Lisa played a superb all-around game, Wendy Germain was outstanding on defense, and Nicole Angelos created some opportunities up front even though she didn't score."

Nancy Hoffman made four saves to backbone the come-from-behind victory.

Andover, 3-0

The Lady Warriors had hammered Dracut 7-1 earlier this season, but ran into a stubborn and improved Middie squad this time around.

"Our girls had trouble adjusting to the level of competition," said Loschi. "Dracut is getting better quickly, but it was still a step down from Concord and Bridgewater."

Junior midfielder Amy Kenny broke the scoreless tie 30 minutes into the first half, depositing her third goal of the season from Amy Heseltine.

Three minutes later Lisa Allen made it 2-0 with one of the season's prettiest goals.

"It was a head ball off a crossing pass by Lindsay Sweeney. Lisa just flicked the ball out of the air and put it past their goaltender."

A more relaxed AHS crew took the field in the second half, with Loschi able to play a lot of people including a couple of junior varsity standouts.

Anne Murnane capped the offense with her fifth goal midway through the half, Sweeney notching her second assist of the game.

Loschi lauded the play of senior forward Allison Ingves, senior defender Lisa Hayes and sophomore defender Rachel Roberts.

Maura Everett and Nicole Wendt split the goal-tending duties, combining for two saves as Andover chalked up its seventh shutout.

AHS field hockey team is productive

By Rick Harrison

A victory and two ties made it another productive week for the most successful Andover High girls' varsity field hockey team in many years.

The Golden Warriors battled North Andover to a 0-0 standoff, slipped past Haverhill, 2-1, and struggled to a rain-soaked 1-1 deadlock with Chelmsford.

Those results left Coach Sandy Lunt's squad at 6-4-2 in Merrimack Valley Conference play, solidly entrenched in fourth place behind Tyngsboro, Lawrence and Tewksbury High, while overall AHS is 6-4-3.

The Lady Warriors will have to turn up the heat to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Division 1 Tournament, however. They need seven of a possible 10 points in their final five games to qualify on a percentage basis, or they must finish second in the league.

AHS faced two tough foes earlier this week, Wilmington and Tewksbury, and it doesn't get any easier tomorrow when the locals travel to Lawrence.

Andover lapsed into a three-game funk when it faced these three opponents consecutively at mid-season, losing 5-0 to Wilmington and 2-1 to both Tewksbury and Lawrence.

The regular season wraps up next week with games against Dracut and non-league rival North Andover.

Four-point week

Junior defender Abby Dalton turned in a strong performance in the 0-0 tie against fired-up North Andover, which had won just one game and tied four when it played Andover.

The shutout was the fourth of the season for Andover, which holds a 23-17 scoring edge on the opposition.

Junior midfielder Holly Clark and junior attack Grace Perry both netted their fourth goals of the season in the balanced Warriors' 2-1 win over Haverhill.

Rose Capomaccio passed out assists on both goals, which were scored in the first 10 minutes, and then outstanding senior netminder Melissa McCarty held the fort with 11 saves.

The triumph enabled AHS to complete a season series sweep of a team it destroyed 5-0 the first time around.

Grace Perry's fifth goal, set up by Holly Clark, gave Andover a tenuous 1-0 first-half lead over Chelmsford in a game played in the pouring rain on a muddy, slippery field.

It also rained the first time the two clubs collided this fall, the Lady Warriors pulling out a 1-0 decision under the lights at Chelmsford High.

This game appeared headed for a similar outcome until the Lions' Leslie Caito drove a penalty stroke past goalie Melissa McCarty with less than five minutes to play.

McCarty finished with five saves, while CHS goalie Cindy White made seven stops.

Playing well for AHS were senior center-midfielder and Co-Capt. Jenn Recesso, Grace Perry and Holly Clark.

By Nancy Risseuw Under 16 Division Wilmington 2 - Hawks 1

All three goals were scored in the first half. Andover's Jim Stratton deflected the ball off the defender on a turn around kick for the Hawks' goal. Goalies Tim Doyle and Sean Gauthier blocked many goal attempts by Wilmington.

BOW: Jim Woodroffe, Scott Nicholson, Andy MacNeil and Mike Mano.
Under 14 Division
Salem 4 - Chargers 0

A formidable, older Salem team suppressed some "could-have-been" goals from the Chargers. A tough loss for the Chargers.

BOW: Hannah Pfeiffer, Ashley Nowell and Stephanie Banos.

Stallions 1 - Hamilton 0

The short handed Stallions came up winners in spite of no substitutes. The Stallions played excellent positional play throughout the entire game. The Andover goal was scored in the second half by Erin Collins, with an assist from Beth Lee and Amy Haynes.

BOW: Katy Chabot and Jill Corkery.

Stoneham 8 -

Andover 2

Andover played defensively in the first half against Stoneham. Andover's first goal came late in the first half, scored by Nicholas Rauseo, assisted by Chris Drizen. The Andover team played an aggressive second half with goal number two again scored by Nicholas Rauseo, with an assist from Sean Casey.

BOW: Shaun Connors, Jeff DeAngelo and Aaron Bancroft.
Andover Sting II 1 -

Danvers 0

In the rain and on the mud, the Sting II dominated the first half and scored the only goal for the game. Mike Maguire, on a breakaway, scored the perfect shot. Danvers came on strong during the final minutes of the game, but Andover's goalie Pat Russo blocked many attempts.

BOW: Eric Stoltz, Ryan Hadley and Jon Germain.

Andover Eagles 2 -

North Reading 1

The Andover Eagles beat North Reading 2-1. Andover got off to a strong offensive start in the first half with Hugh Quattlebaum scoring the first goal with an assist from Brian Tisbert. Shaun Rodriguez's strong control of the ball continued to support drives by Tim Smith and Matt Yost. North Reading came back at the end of the first half to tie the game at 1-1. Just after the second half began, heavy rainfall hampered a number of plays for both teams. Jeff Thompson, Pat Hess and Josh Mann maintained a strong defense and North

Reading was kept out of scoring position. Andover dominated the second half, maintaining constant pressure in the offensive zone through the efforts of Elliot Sykes and Hugh Quattlebaum. Their efforts finally resulted in a penalty shot by Brian Tisbert to score the winning goal shortly before the game was called due to heavy rain.

BOW's: Pratap Penumalli, Zachary Smith and Tim Lecam.

Under 12 Division

Awesome 5 - Beverly 1

The fog and rain did not keep the Awesomes from being totally awesome.

Noelle Blank scored the first goal, assisted by Alexa Kikonis. Goals two and three also came in the first half. Noelle Blank booted in goal two assisted by Viki Pierce and goal three was scored by Sarah Muller, with an assist from Jenna Hartwell. BOW: Megan Burke, Megan Roth and Catherine Ostrofsky.

Golden Lions 1 -

North Andover 0

The Lions and the Knights played an even game for the first half. In the second half, the Lions generated a breakaway score. Alex Tommasino finished over the goalie from a Scott Peterson cross, at 22 minutes into the half. Matt Guenther and the North Andover goalie made many fine saves.

BOW: Mike Montelro, Robby Busby and Matt Rogers.

Cross country teams list results

By Rick Harrison

With sensational sophomore Heather Holmender, Ellen Sullivan and Jen Ashlock leading the way by placing in the top five, the Andover High girls' varsity cross country team pulled off the Merrimack Valley Conference upset of the season when it nudged previously-undefeated Chelmsford 26-29.

The Lady Warriors overcame a spectacular course record performance by the Lions' Jennifer Long en route to victory in the first home meet of the fall on Andover's 2.75 mile course.

The AHS boys didn't fare as well against the perennially powerful Chelmsford boys, dropping a 15-41 dual meet decision as John Grange's equally-impressive course record effort led a sweep of the top five spots by the Lions.

Both Andover teams also fell in non-league dual meets to intra-town rival Phillips Academy, the girls beaten 22-33 and the boys 16-46.

Those results left the girls fourth in the MVC standings with a 3-2-0 league record, while the overall ledger is 3-3-0. The boys are 2-4-0 league and 2-5-0 overall.

Coach Leo Lafond's teams returned to the trails earlier this week, the girls hosting Presentation of Mary Academy-Methuen in another non-leaguier and facing Haverhill (2-3-0) yesterday, while the boys traveled to Haverhill for a tri-meet against Dracut (3-2-0) and the winless host team (0-6-0).

Next Wednesday, Oct. 24, the Warriors host Lowell which entered yesterday's meets undefeated on the girls' side (4-0-0) and once-beaten on the boys' side (4-1-0).

The MVC season wraps up Oct. 31 with a Halloween home meet against Wilmington.

Andover girls, 26-29

Baseball is often billed as a "game of inches," while cross country meets are often decided by split seconds.

Such was the case in the Lady Warriors' exciting 26-29 triumph over Chelmsford, as Heather Holmender and junior Jen Ashlock both showed tremendous heart and determination by outkicking Chelmsford runners to the finish line.

The talented tandem beat their nearest CHS pursuer by one second en route to grabbing second and fifth place respectively, and that four-point swing was a major factor in clinching the victory for AHS.

Also key were the strong showings of Ellen Sullivan, Junior Heather McNemar and sophomore Debbie Xifaras.

No one was going to touch Jennifer Long on this particular afternoon, her 15:41 clocking for the 2.75 miles a terrific record-shattering time.

Holmader, winner of two races this fall, was a distant runnerup in 17:04 as she edged Chelmsford's Becky Cox (17:05).

Ellen Sullivan was a solid fourth in 17:09, and Ashlock's fifth-place clocking of 17:54 was one valuable second and a half-stride better than Kerry White's 17:55.

McNemar and Xifaras earned seventh and eighth place unchallenged, their times of 18 minutes flat and 18:21 more than a minute faster than ninth and 10th place Chelmsford harriers Kara Beauchesne (19:31) and Libby Palm (19:36).

The loss, Chelmsford's first to Andover in many years, left the Lady Lions at 3-1 overall.

The Andover JV girls remained undefeated by beating Chelmsford, Kristie Barrow winning the race with excellent support from Diane Ellsworth (third) and Debby Valle (fourth).

Andover boys

The Golden Warriors couldn't match Chelmsford's depth, with John Grange's course record leading a Lions' top five sweep.

Sophomore Brian Twomey was the first AHS runner across the line, sixth overall, and he was closely followed by teammates Matt Liberty, Junior Jeremy Roux and senior Tri-Capt. Tim Parker who secured seventh, eighth and ninth places.

It was a welcome back for sophomore Liberty, the top-notch swimmer returning after an extended bout with the flu had sidelined him for two meets.

TOWNTALK

Deborah Soreff, 23 Sagamore Drive, had a drawing take first place in the Lexington Art Students' Exchange. Ms. Soreff and the subject of the drawing, her friend Elisa Derby, are both juniors at Andover High. Four of her works will be exhibited at the Lexington Exchange this month. They include a monochrome print self portrait, a pencil drawing and a pastel drawing of a face on a paper bag positioned so that the round handle of the bag becomes the ear and the register tape for the purchase is attached to the handle to become an earring.

If there are any members of Andover High's class of 1971 who know of plans for their 20-year reunion, they should get in touch with Bill McCann. He's looking for this information. He can be reached by mail at 1 Colorado Drive, Tyngsboro, Mass. 01879.

Helen Cummings, of 7 Dorset Circle, had no idea what was in store for her recently when she went to Albany, Ga., for a visit with her daughter, Sonia Pierce, Andover High School class of 1978. Well, she had some idea. Her daughter had just given birth to twins on Sept. 17: Alexandra Catherine, 6 pounds, 6 ounces; and Michael Taylor, 6 pounds, 11 ounces.

For two weeks, Helen the grandma got up at night to deal with feeding the twins because she wanted her daughter to gain back her strength before she returned to Andover, where she lives with the twins' grandpa, Robert Cummings. Actually, Helen admits that she'd get up when the twins cried but her daughter would, too.

"Oh, I was exhausted," Helen told us. Luckily, the twins often do not cry at the same time, reports their grandmother, who adds that there are no other twins in the family. The Cummings have another daughter, Barbara Cummings, who lives in Sudbury, and that daughter has three children. Sonia Pierce and her husband, Charles Anthony Pierce, have a son, too, Joshua Booth, who is 7. His birthday was two days after the twins arrived.

Helen says her daughter, who at 5-feet, 1-inch is tiny, carried the twins full term.

Boy Scout Troop 79, of St. Robert Bellarmine Church on Haggetts Pond Road, took first place overall in a scouting competition last week at Norwich University in Northfield, Vt.

More than 50 troops were represented by approximately 900 scouts at the Invitational Camporee on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 5-7, at the northeastern Vermont campus.

"They came in two firsts, two seconds, and first overall," said Paul Bevacqua, scoutmaster, but who missed the event because of a business commitment.

David Sheldon, assistant scoutmaster, took charge of the troop for the weekend. The competitions included sports like basketball and football, pioneering skills such as lashings and fire building and obstacle courses, according to Mr. Sheldon.

"There was a lot of teamwork and it tended to use the skills that they'd been practicing over the past couple of weeks," Mr. Sheldon said. "It went down as a real honor for the council. Norwich is a very big event. It's a real feather in the cap to walk away with the overall."

John Ardini and Barry Green were the other two adults attending the event.

Members of Troop 79 taking part in the camporee were David and Matthew Bevacqua, Chris Sheldon, Andrew Ardini, Brian and Joey King, senior patrol leader Kevin Shepard, Jeff Arleque, Michael Kenny, Chris Schardin, Matt Griggs, Nathan Winters, Glen Sinlawski and Dave Huse.

Karen Francia, a dispatcher at the police and fire departments, gave birth to a baby girl, Victoria Lynn, on Oct. 11. Karen and her husband, Eric, live in Lawrence.

The police continue to collect large numbers of lawn ornaments taken from homes by vandals and dropped off in other parts of town. Residents missing items such as ceramic sheep, plastic ducks or religious statuettes should contact the police station.

The items will otherwise be included in the annual police auction of unclaimed goods to be held Oct. 27 at the station.

nalists, who also include Richard Sagar, former superintendent of schools in Cazenovia, N.Y.

The interviews will be conducted Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the Doherty Middle School cafeteria. The public is encouraged to submit written questions for the candidates, before 4 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 19, to Andres Salazar, committee chairman, c/o the superintendent's office in the school administration building on Whittier Street.

The committee plans to hire a new superintendent by the end of the month and for that person to be working here by January 1991, when outgoing Superintendent Kenneth Seifert will leave on a six-month sabbatical. Dr. Seifert will officially retire in June of next year after serving as Andover's superintendent of schools for 22 years.

Eileen Gress

Eileen Gress has been the superintendent of the Westboro schools for the past two years and before that was assistant superintendent in the same system for three years.

She has a master's degree in curriculum from the University of Rochester and is working on her dissertation for doctorate in education.

Lydia DaSilva, chairman of the Westboro School Committee, said Ms. Gress was a "hard worker who was energetic and a woman who provided educational leadership" for Westboro.

Ms. DaSilva praised Superintendent Gress' work on developing a parent and teacher center in Westboro where both could meet, and enroll in various classes such as computer training and parenting skills.

Sally Lividini, president of Westboro High School's music parents' organization, said Ms. Gress was always accessible and responded to parents' questions quickly.

"She is wonderful," said Ms. Lividini. "She brought many new programs into the schools and was able to get funding from business in the area."

Mark McQuillan

Mark McQuillan has been assistant superintendent of schools in Beverly for the past four years. Before that he spent four years as a basic skills consultant and writing specialist in the Newton public schools. He has a doctorate in education from Harvard University.

Nancy Winter, member and secretary of the Beverly School Committee, said one of Mr. McQuillan's major contributions to the Beverly school system was his involvement in designing and implementing a five-year-cycle curriculum-development program.

"His relationship with the School Committee was excellent. He followed through on everything we asked him to do," she said.

Elise Bernstein, president of Beverly High School's parent teacher organization, said she was impressed with his involvement and support in parents' role at Beverly high.

"He is an impressive administrator. He was a big part of the good stuff in the Beverly schools," she said, referring to his involvement in curriculum development, a revamped science and math curricula.

Coon blames Tucker for state budget woes parts of Rep. Tucker's record he doesn't like.

"I wouldn't have voted for that biggest tax package in the history of Massachusetts," Mr. Coon said.

Mr. Coon accused Rep. Tucker of supporting the service tax as the "tax of the future," while he said the state should be providing incentives for business rather than piling on more taxes.

Rep. Tucker has gone along with tax votes without giving enough attention to the restructuring of government, Mr. Coon said.

People are scared

Mr. Coon pointed to the recent loss of Proposition 2 1/2 override questions in Lawrence as proof that people have had enough of tax increases.

The strong showing of John Desmond, Rep. Tucker's Democratic rival who took the city of Lawrence by 200 votes in the primary, was further evidence of dissatisfaction, according to Mr. Coon.

Defends his business

Rep. Tucker recently accused Mr. Coon of misrepresentation, calling himself a business owner when his office, at 360 Merrimack St. in Lawrence, is closed.

He denies the charges that Essex Water Treatment Inc., his water treatment business, is closed, but said he has scaled back the business during the campaign.

"It's not an officially closed-down business," Mr. Coon said. "What I do now is just respond to current customers in terms of service."

Mr. Coon started the business after finding a filtration and water softening product that solved a problem his parents were having at their cottage in Raymond, Maine. The filtration system worked so well that they bought a franchise from the company, according to Mr. Coon. He owns 20 percent of the business and holds the title of president.

"We had five telemarketers and five salespeople until this campaign started," he said.

He cut the business back and closed the Lawrence office to spend more time on the campaign. He now works out of his parents' house, where he stays, and is living off his savings and the money he gets from the occasional service request, he said.

He would not disclose the number of customers he services or the revenues generated by the business.

"We tend to, as a private business, keep these things private," he said.

Abortion

"I'm personally opposed to abortion, but if a vote came up on a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, I would vote no," Mr. Coon said.

He also said he would vote to support a woman's right to choose within the first 24 weeks of a pregnancy, the current position of the Supreme Court in Roe vs. Wade, if that decision were to fall back to the individual states.

"I would vote within those parameters that we have now," he said, and when further pressed added, "Yeah. Within 24 weeks."

But there is a place for "certain, reasonable requirements such as parental consent for minors," he said.

"My solution is to concentrate on trying to find ways to reduce the number of women that have to face that option every year and the best way to do that I feel is through education and birth control."

Eight is enough

"I would support an eight-year limitation on terms of state offices," he said.

A freshman legislator should be able to be effective fairly quickly and he would be no different, Mr. Coon said.

He was asked if he thought experience in office didn't have some value.

"Not with the results that we've seen," he said.

Education

Mr. Coon said education will be one of his priorities if he's elected.

"I'm not going to take a back seat to Sue Tucker on the education issue by any stretch of the imagination," he said.

Mr. Coon was asked what his opinion was of the opportunity a few years ago for Andover to become involved in the collaborative school.

"That would have been a very expensive proposition and it's probably fortunate for our community that we didn't get involved with that," he said.

Campaign

Mr. Coon spends about 50 hours a week on his campaign, he said, much of that time going door to door.

"I've been very well received. In fact, that's my favorite part of the campaign, going door to door," he said. "I've lost about 10 pounds."

"I've covered a good 70 percent (of the district). I've knocked on a heck of a lot of doors and will continue to right up to Nov. 6."

Mr. Coon said his campaign had spent about $5,000 up through the primary. His campaign manager is Wendy Wakeman.

A reception for Mr. Coon, sponsored by Charles Dalton and Susan Poore, is being held at the Lanam Club this Sunday, Oct. 21.

Personal

Mr. Coon was born in Sacramento, Calif., and lived in Cincinnati, Ohio, before moving to Andover where he graduated from high school in 1982. He has two younger sisters, Jill and Shari.

Mr. Coon was a member of the National Honor Society at Andover High School and earned his varsity letter in track.

Also in high school he began to invest in stocks and said it was not unusual for him to spend his break from Cole's hardware store, over at Ford's Coffee shop poring over a Wall Street Journal.

"I ended up financing 50 percent of my Babson education" through the investment profits, Mr. Coon said.

He graduated from Babson College in Wellesley in 1987 with a bachelor's of science degree in business management with an emphasis on entrepreneurial studies and investments.

He took a year off after his junior year at Babson to travel with "Up With People," an entertainment group that travels worldwide.

He was president of the Society for the Advancement of Management, a co-founder/director of the Babson Entrepreneurial exchange, which now boasts 400 members, and a member of the cross country track team while in college.

He is a member of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce and Chairman of the Andover Republican Town Committee.

After finishing school, he went to work for Venture Economics, a business he had started working for part time as a student.

"They're sort of the industry watchdog with what takes place in the venture capital industry," Mr. Coon said. "I worked for Venture Economics as a research analyst."

From there he went to work for Zero Stage Capital, a venture capital firm, as an investment analyst.

"I worked for them for over a year," he said, before starting his own business.

His interest in politics came from his grandfather Phelps, his mother's father, who was a big Democrat in Indiana.

"I would say he is a major influence on my life," Mr. Coon said.
